TRAIN PLUNGES INTO CREEK; SCORES PERISH

CASPER, WYOMING, Sept. 28—(By the A. P.) — The loss of life last night when the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy passenger train Number 30, went through a bridge over Cole Creek, fourteen miles east of here, is estimated at approximately forty persons.

The stream, ordinarily dry during the summer, was swollen into a raging torrent by heavy rains of yesterday, and the roar of rushing water over the coaches could be heard three miles.

One passenger coach was swept one hundred yards into the Platte River, which at that point is more than a mile wide.

It is believed that no passengers in that coach was saved, because by the time rescuers could have given aid the coach had rolled over on its side and become completely submerged.

Four lost their lives in the Casper sleeper, while the others were drowned in the day coach, smoker and baggage and express cars. The express car was completely wrecked. Engineer Spangler, Fireman Mallon and Conductor Frank Guff, of Casper, are reported to have lost their lives.

The train went through a weakened bridge, over which just two hours previously a heavily loaded freight train had passed.

The engine and tender had gone over the bridge when the collapse came and the locomotive was pulled back into a raging torrent.

Mystery In Death Of Wealthy Woman

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The death of Mrs Charles Webb, New York and Philadelphia society woman, which it was learned last night has aroused the suspicions of several West Chester county officials, will be thoroughly investigated in an effort to discover its cause, the authorities said today.

Mrs. Webb, who was said to have been wealthy in her own right, died last Tuesday in the fashionable West Chester Biltmore Country Club after an illness of three weeks. Dr. William J. Meyer, her physician, declined to issue a statement on the ground that death followed certain unnamed mysterious circumstances.

Several relatives including Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunter, of Devon, Pa., who were with Mrs. Webb at the time of her death, and cognizant of the alleged mysterious circumstances surrounding it, demanded that an autopsy be performed. Medical experts were summoned and instructed to determine if any lethal poisons were in the body. The result probably will not be known until tomorrow.

The greatest secrecy prevailed at the club and among the dead woman's relatives and friends. Mr. Webb, who was with his wife through her illness, could not be found at his home, his office or his club.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb were married November 4 last. Since that time they have lived largely in hotels, country clubs and resorts.

Mrs. Webb's private fortune is estimated at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. It was said changes in her will had been made just previous to her death.

Though physicians working on the case would not make any statement regarding the circumstances of her death, it was said that suspicions had first been aroused by bruises on the abdomen.

Taft Bill Subject To Referendum

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The state supreme court today held that the Taft taxation law is subject to a referendum and that the secretary of state has no authority to pass upon the sufficiency of referendum petitions until the petitions have been checked by county election boards and returned to his office.

The decision means that the Taft law will be submitted to the voters for approval or rejection at the November election.

The decisions were rendered in the suit brought against the state tax commission to compel that body to proceed under the Taft law and that to stop Secretary of State Brown from proceeding to inquire into the validity of the referendum petitions before they had been sent out to county election officials to be checked by them.

Chief Justice Marshall and Judges Wanamaker, Day and Allen concurred in both decisions. Judge Robinson concurred in the judgment against the secretary of state, but not in the syllabus. Judge Matthias is ill and did not participate while Judge Jones is absent.

Judge Robinson dissented in the suit against the tax commission his verdict being that the law is one providing for a tax levy and not subject to referendum.

WASHINGTON, September 28.—Republican leaders grouped together in what is known as the "Ways and Means Committee," are meeting here today and tomorrow to discuss plans for the financing of the Republican party in the forthcoming Presidential campaign.

Money raised now is not supposed to be used in the interest of any particular candidate but in order to give the party a momentum on the day the Republican National Convention chooses the candidate for the Presidency.

Murmurs of discontent are heard with reference to the alleged tendency of the Coolidge people to close the race against any other contenders. One of the leaders here has told Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, that he believes it a mistake to have the present

Military Control Extended By Walton In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—The iron hand of the military descended today upon another county in Oklahoma as warning was given by Governor J. C. Walton that more stringent martial rule is in store for other sections if "invisible government" in the state can be put down in no other way.

Upon the appeal of more than a score of residents of Sulphur, the governor late last night ordered military occupation of Murray county where the civil authorities, some of whom are said to be controlled by the Ku Klux Klan, are charged with having neglected to prosecute persons responsible for the numerous mob outrages.

Violence and bloodshed may result from the "deplorable conditions" existing in the county, the petitioners declared in asking for the establishment of rigid martial law.

The persons and property of those not members of the Ku Klux Klan, they asserted, are unsafe under the "reign of Klan officers."

Early today at the executive mansion, Governor Walton declared there will be no end to military rule in the state until mob violence and masked depredations cease.

"Martial law is being tightened instead of loosened," he said in denying rumors that a modification of military regulations is in progress. Despite his statement, however, the belief persisted in well informed quarters that a decrease in the scope of martial law can be expected within the next few days.

This opinion was strengthened by a perceptible lessening of public tension which has prevailed since legislative opposition against the official acts of Governor Walton first cropped out.

A legal fight to determine whether they are empowered to hold a special session without a call from the governor, was started late yesterday by the sixty-seven members of the lower house of the state legislature, whose attempt to launch an impeachment investigation was blocked by state troopers acting under orders from Governor Walton.

They applied in district court here for an injunction to restrain National Guardsmen from interfering with meetings of the house.

The case probably will be threshed out in the United States Supreme Court before it is finally settled, both sides agreed. Hearing on the petition for injunction was set for next Tuesday morning.

Interest in the situation shifted to Tecumseh today, where Homer McKeown, Grand Cyclops of the Klan, at Maude, Okla., will be tried in Superior Court on a charge of contempt of court. The Grand Cyclops and W. W. Price, both of whom are prominent business men, were arrested late yesterday after refusing to testify before a military court of inquiry in connection with the flogging of a school teacher at Maude in 1921. They had been implicated in the whipping by witnesses previously interrogated. They were denied bail and spent the night in the county jail at Tecumseh.

THREE ROBBERIES LAST NIGHT

The homes of Walter F. Gahm, county farm agent, Baird avenue and Seventeenth streets, and A. Pusateri, 2211 Waller street, and the sleeping room over the Palace of Sweets, 919 Gallia street, were entered by thieves last night. The most profitable haul was at the Waller street home where a ladies' gold watch valued at $25 and $2 in money were stolen. At the Gahm home a gold lavaliier with a small diamond, and a ladies' ring were taken. Nothing was found missing from the 919 Gallia street place.

The robbery at the Gahm home was pulled off early in the evening and was thought to be the work of three boys who were seen near the home when Mr. and Mrs. Gahm left about 7:15 to attend the C. O. Rotroff funeral, Scioto Trail. They went out the back door and locked it, and on arriving home about 8:35 found the door ajar. The bureau drawers had been ransacked and bed-clothing pulled back in the search for valuables. The jewelry was taken from a jewel box in a bed room. Five dollars in a pocketbook on the ice box was overlooked. A small pocketbook that had been left in the bedroom was found in the kitchen. Later Mr. Gahm learned that the three boys who were noticed near the home walked back and forth on Baird avenue several times and then disappeared around the corner on Seventeenth street. This morning in the alley back of the house a box that contained nail enamel was found and further up the alley the enamel was found.

At the Pusateri home entrance was gained during the night while Mr. and Mrs. Pusateri slept upstairs. Entrance was gained by lowering the top part of a front window, left unlocked as a screen was in it. The imprint of the thief's muddy shoes was left on the davenport near the window. All the drawers downstairs were ransacked but no silverware was taken. In one drawer the thief overlooked a mesh bag containing $17.

Entrance to the sleeping rooms over the Palace of Sweets must have been made early last night as William Gianetti, who occupies the rooms, discovered the place had been ransacked when he retired about one o'clock. Entrance was gained by climbing up over a rear porch roof.

Given The Wrong Baby; "Hands It To Stranger"

DETROIT, MICH., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—William Greatrex, whose wife died eleven days after the birth of his son, was continuing today to search for some clue to the mysterious disappearance of the baby which was given by mistake to Alfonse Vlemminck when he called at the Evangelical Deaconness Hospital to claim the infant son of his 18-year-old daughter, Eva Vlemminck.

When Greatrex went to the hospital to get his child after his wife's funeral at Toronto, Canada, he discovered the child was not at the hospital. An investigation showed the baby belonging to Greatrex had been turned over to Vlemminck. Hospital authorities found Vlemminck and attempted to get possession of the child, but the baby had disappeared.

Police took Vlemminck into custody and demanded that he produce the baby. He asserted he had given the child to a man "From Pennsylvania" who he met in a saloon on his way home from the hospital. Although police assert he changed his story in some details after several hours of questioning, he still maintained the child was given to a stranger.

Doubting the story told by Vlemminck, police began an exhaustive search of the weeds, trees, a marsh an dcreek near the Vlemminck home. Except for a few baby garments found at the house, no clue as to the whereabouts of the child was obtained. Eva Vlemminck, mother of the child, also asserted she did not know anything about the missing baby.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul W. Voorhees said today that until the baby is found no action can be taken against the father.

In the meantime the Vlemminck baby still is at the hospital, awaiting some one to claim it.

Fire Destroys Mt. Joy Home; John Daniels Has Close Call

John Daniels, aged 42, faced death in tragic form while he slept in the home of his brother, Bud Daniels, near Mt. Joy, last night.

When he awoke at 11 o'clock, smoke was pouring into his room and he barely had time to grab his clothes and leave the room in safety. Two minutes later part of the blazing roof fell across his bed. By this time the upper portion of the two story frame house was a mass of flames and not one piece of household goods was saved. It is believed the fire was caused by a lamp exploding, as in his flight from his room Daniels noticed that the lamp had fallen from the wall.

The house was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bud Daniels, who are visiting in West Virginia. Their loss is partially covered by insurance.

Local Shoe Salesman Reported Out Of Wreck Zone In Wyoming

Inquiry at the offices of the Selby, Irving Drew and Excelsior Shoe Companies this afternoon failed to reveal any of their salesmen in the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., where 40 persons were killed and many injured when a train plunged into Platte Creek, 16 miles east of Casper, last night.

J. Frost Davis, who covers that territory for the Excelsior Shoe Company, was due in El Paso, Texas, to-day, according to a telegram received from him Thursday.

These meetings will be attended by the general committees and others designated by the various Rotary clubs, so that all will become acquainted.

A brilliant address by J. E. Buckingham, distinguished Ashland Rotarian, featured the meeting. Mr. Buckingham, one of the biggest men in the Ohio valley, spoke optimistically of the future and emphasized the advantages that would come from closer co-operation among business men of the Tri-State community. Such a union of strength, born of mutual understanding and respect would make a power for good that would be irresistible, he said. Various committee are to be named by the president in order to complete the organization. The next meeting will be held in Huntington the last Monday in October.

Sarazen In Finals At Golf Tournament

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., Sept. 28—Having passed long Jim Barnes, the tallest obstacle, in his effort to win his second professional golfers' association championship, Gene Sarazen of Briar Cliff Manor, today met Robert Cruikshank, the shortest in the semi-finals.

In the other half of the round Walter Hagen, whose progress through the week has been rather easily made, opposed George McLean, of Bronxville. Weather and turf conditions are perfect.

Sarazen had an interesting game with Jim Barnes, but won at the 36th hole with a birdie. Barnes had evened the match on the hole before the final one with an eagle three. He might have halved the last one and gone further with Sarazen had he not been a bit nervous on the 36th hole.

Drowning Man Saved By Dirigible

Uncle Sam's army dirigible "blimps" have been put to many uses, but this remarkable photograph shows one of the tiny balloons flying over the water, near Langley Field, Va., and saving a drowning man. The rope ladder, weighted down by a bucket was dropped to him, and he may be seen climbing into the basket of the "blimp."

Three Arrests In Raid Near Fullerton

(Special to The Times.)

GREENUP, KY., Sept. 28.—Three young men, Lawrence Hardin, 18, Wm. Muck, 19, and Reese Rowe, were arrested on Shultz near Fullerton, Friday by Sheriff E. V. Callihan and Deputy Sheriff Jerome Shepherd of this place, and John Davis of Fullerton.

The officers claim they found a 75-gallon still, 30 gallons of the finished product, and 700 gallons of mash in the possession of the three men. They are charged with manufacturing and possessing whiskey and will be arraigned before Judge Nichols next Monday.

Unable to furnish bond they languish in jail here.

Press Strike Near End

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—George L. Berry, president of the International Web Pressmen's and Assistants' Union today announced receipt of a telegram from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, approving the International's action in outlawing the local pressmen's union which struck a week ago Monday night in alleged violation of an agreement with the parent body and with the Publishers' Association of New York.

The message declared that/"Unless the pressmen redeem themselves from this awful blunder," Mr. Berry is justified "in resorting to every means" within his power to keep the original contract inviolable.

The press strike, nominally ended yesterday, with the appearance for the first time in nine days of morning and evening newspapers as individual entities. It was indicated it will be definitely concluded tonight, when the 2,200 strikers cast their expected vote for peace.

Meanwhile, additional men from out of town manned the presses, which today gave New York its news in virtually normal form. The present 16 page folio will be the rule, pending complete settlement, publishers announced.

Ohio Labor Elects Officers

MANSFIELD, Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—John B. Moore, president; Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary, and all of the other officers of the Ohio Federation of Labor, were re-elected at the closing session of the annual convention of that organization here yesterday. The convention had been scheduled to adjourn today, but having finished their business, the delegates voted to finish yesterday. The closing session was enlivened by charges on the floor by President Frank Ludvinka, of Sub-District 5 of the Ohio Mine Workers, that the state is neglecting safety trucks for mine rescue parties. Mr. Ludvinka declared that the trucks, of which there are five, fitted with gas masks and other implements needed by rescue parties to enter mines after explosions, are inadequate and practically useless. He said it would take six hours to get one ready in case of need.

The trucks, Mr. Ludvinka said, in some cases, are left in the streets, no rent being paid for housing them.

Every effort has been made, but without success, to get appropriations to place men in charge of the trucks, H. R. Witter, director of the state department of industrial relations, told the delegates in answering the charges. He said it is up to organized labor to insist that the money be provided.

Object

administration receive commitments for delegates at this stage of the proceedings and give the impression that it is unethical for anyone else to announce a candidacy.

It is a fact that the would-be-candidates are holding back in deference to President Coolidge because the latter has not yet had an opportunity of addressing Congress and announcing his legislative program, which, of course, is his platform for the nominating campaign. Some of the friends of the rival candidates are crying out that the race is being closed against them and that a nomination "dictated by the White House" is not an expression of the free will of the Republican party.

Those who are in a position to speak for President Coolidge's cause insist that they too would feel it a mistake if anything were done to bring about what could be called "a dictated" nomination, and that more prestige and value would insure to a nomination received after everyone had had a chance to make a campaign than under the opposite kind of circumstances.

The difficulty, however, from the viewpoint of candidates other than President Coolidge is that the situation is largely psychological. Politicians in various parts of the country who are able to influence the naming of delegates, think they see the "Old Guard" flocking to Coolidge and they get on the band wagon. Others who are not so numerous but a great deal more cautious do not commit themselves at all at such an early date but wait to see how political affairs shape themselves. For one thing, Mr. Coolidge has not yet expressed enough views on anything to enable opponents to judge whether he has sensed the true wishes of public opinion or whether there is a chance by differing with him to bring public opinion to their side.

The value of commitments and pledges given by politicians early in the game is appreciated on every side and it is rumored that friends of former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois, are going around asking for second choice votes in case the convention should become deadlocked on Coolidge. Mr. Lowden himself, was in town a few days ago, and disclaimed all connection with Presidential politics, and so far as the White House is concerned it has not heard of any Lowden movement as yet. There is talk of activity on the part of friends of Senator Hiram Johnson of California though he too has not announced himself as a candidate.

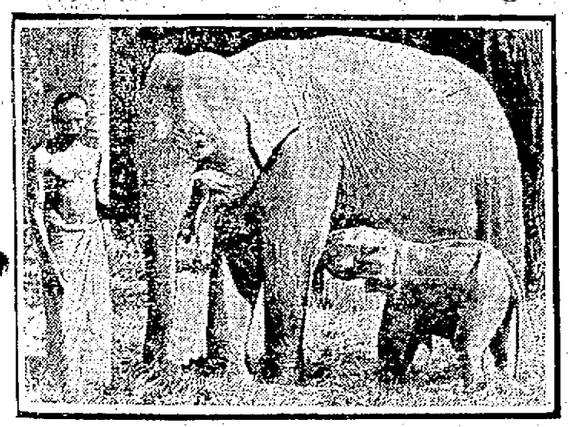

Governor Pinchot's political lieutenants are said to be active, but it is unquestionably true that until a formal announcement of candidacy comes from some rival of President Coolidge the ice will not be broken for the other candidates. It is an advantage for the incumbent to have the opposing candidates "deny" their announcements as long as possible and while the cry of closing the doors against other candidates is being heard, the Coolidge people, of course, insist that no conscious effort in that direction is being made.

Before many weeks, an announcement that the race is a free-for-all may have to be made by some prominent Republican leaders in order to attract the necessary financial support for the party as a whole and to insure the right kind of spirit before the National convention is held. The rumors of discontent may vanish but for the moment they are working in the direction of opening the race, something some of the Coolidge friends say they would welcome.

LANDS IN JAIL—NOT RIVER

COVINGTON, KY., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Because he battled with Bridge Officer C. A. Smith, who sought to keep him from leaping from the suspension bridge, C. A. Morgan, 32, sailor, landed in the Covington city jail today instead of the Ohio river. Police Judge L. L. Munson gave Morgan 40 days in which to consider his act. Morgan said he had been drinking and could not remember his actions.

Outlook For Reduction Of Taxes By Congress Not Favorable

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Sept. 28 — The outlook for a reduction of the national tax burden at the next session of Congress is not favorable, Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, declared here today in addressing the National Tax Association. Certainly there can be no reduction if the soldiers' bonus bill and a public buildings measure are passed, in the judgment of Mr. Green, who is in line for the chairmanship of the House ways and means committee, which passes upon all tax matters.

Beyond measures for simplification, Mr. Green looks for few changes in the tax law, but says there will be strong effort, supported by a considerable popular opinion for the reimposition of the excess profits tax. He told his audience, however, that the absence of need for additional revenue probably would be determined sufficiently to prevent this or other new taxes, such as a levy on undistributed profits and a sales tax.

Easy to Beat Tax.

The Iowa representative declared the present system of corporate taxation presents an easy way of avoiding taxation, adding that he did not believe the American people would permit this state of affairs to continue indefinitely. In this connection, Mr. Green said Henry Ford was popularly supposed to have the largest income of any citizen of the country and that while no one knew what income tax he pays, "it is certain that it cannot be at all in proportion to his income."

"The Ford company," the speaker added, "is continually adding to its investments by buying coal mines, iron mines, and railroads, erecting new factories and constructing more and more of the parts of the automobile that has made Mr. Ford famous. While technically no income has passed thereby to the stockholders, as matter of fact their riches have increased to the amount of these investments and yet they pay no income tax thereon.

Stock Dividend Fraud.

"Besides this it is perfectly easy for any corporation to issue stock dividends and thereby, for all practical purposes, put the surplus under the control of the stockholders in such a manner that they can use it as they see fit. In this way an enormous amount of dividends has, in effect, been distributed to stockholders without the payment of any income tax.

"At present there is little prospect of a change in this respect, for the adoption of a tax on undistributed profits would render necessary sweeping changes in other parts of the laws. Also it should be said that there are no difficulties in framing a measure of this kind so that it would work out fairly."

Mr. Green advocated an additional inheritance tax on tax-exempt securities and a denial of deductions on income from such securities. He favored also levies on gifts above a certain amount received in each taxable year and declared the law should be so changed as to prevent creations of trusts for the purpose of avoiding taxation.

Had Narrow Escape

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Sept. 28 — Five members of the Ohio legislative reunion party, visiting here, had a narrow escape today, when an automobile in which they were riding on the road to Missionary Ridge, dashed backward, struck several pine trees and was stopped against their broken trunks just in time to prevent it going over an embankment 75 feet high.

County Commissioner Charles F. Harding of Hamilton county, who in the car with his sister, Miss Louise Harding, Miss Eleanor S. Wilson of Cincinnati, John T. Theobald, deputy U. S. marshal, and Mrs. Theobald, and, H. H. Peters of Chattanooga as chauffeur, said the car backed fully 400 yards before it struck the trees.

The machine was slightly damaged. The party though shaken up and suffering from shock, was able to continue on the trip after the brakes had been repaired.

Members of the legislative party were out early today and before noon had covered a 40 mile tour of the battlefields in this vicinity. In the afternoon they visited Signal Mountain, where they were entertained with a farewell dinner by the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati.

The party left Chattanooga shortly before midnight on the two special trains and will arrive in Cincinnati tomorrow noon.

Discrimination Is Alleged By Widow Of "Chair" Victim

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28 — Mrs. Noble Holt, widow of the murderer of Frank Hueftlein, a Cincinnati detective, is reported as preparing to address a letter to Governor A. V. Donahey, protesting against the mercy extended to John L. Hunter, negro, who murdered Policeman Lawrence Klump. Holt was sentenced to death, and the extreme penalty was imposed upon him last Spring in the Ohio penitentiary.

The jury in the case of Hunter several days ago brought in a verdict of guilty with recommendation of mercy. This saved Hunter from death in the chair, but put him in prison for life without hope of pardon. Mrs. Holt alleges that her husband did not know that Detective Hueftlein was a police officer, inasmuch as the latter was in plain clothes. She pointed out that Hunter shot and killed Klump while the policeman was in uniform.

Kiwanians Enjoy Visit To Stockham Farm

While the down-pour kept some of the more timid members within the sacred confines of their own domiciles, nevertheless upwards of thirty Kiwanians visited the J. M. Stockham peach and apple orchard, Thursday afternoon, and had the time of their lives. It was a happy bunch of "boys" who mounted to the top of the world near Henley and out in the open cut capers that would, perhaps, have shocked the modesty of those who imagine men must be dignified on any and all occasions.

Mr. Stockham, who had invited the members to be his guests, chaperoned the Kiwanians through his well-kept orchard, consisting of more than 7000 trees, many of which are loaded to the ground with perfect specimens of fruit. Those who had never seen the orchard regretted the short time they were permitted to be there. The rain had prevented the Kiwanians from starting until an hour after the appointed time. Mr. Stockham gave the "boys" the divine right to eat until they could eat no more and they did this very thing—while others had their pockets bulging with the very choicest apples. When the excursion through the orchard was ended, and the party reached the big sorting and packing department, they lined up at Mr. Stockham's request and were each presented with a large basket of select apples, Grimes Golden and Jonathans—and if there are better apples, they have never shown themselves in this part of the country.

The return trip was made without incident, and the Kiwanians, with Mr. Stockham as their guest, repaired to the Mary Louise where a delightful feed was served, after which Mr. Stockham gave an interesting talk concerning the care of an orchard. His talk was along scientific lines, the kind that has made his orchard the pride of his eye and the envy of those who visited it.

Hon. Adam Frick gave a talk concerning the celebration occastoned by the opening of the A. & P. Highway Thursday. His talk was interesting, as was his report concerning a trip he made to Columbus requesting the Highway department to repair the road leading to the Roosevelt Game Preserve.

Are Hustling West Side Paving

A half mile of completed brick road from Pond Run east is open to traffic and within ten days another half mile is expected to be ready for use judging from the splendid headway contractors S. Monroe and Son Company have been making on the five mile job. Grading has been completed for another mile and as soon as all brick are down on the first mile concrete base will be poured for the second mile. The five mile stretch is to be finished and opened a mile at a time. That part of the road opened is from Pond Run to Al Turner's barn.

The contractors have separate crews at work on the big concrete bridges and on the excavating and concrete base. The Rabbit Run bridge is completed, fine headway is being made on the Pond Run bridge and the bridge near the Cunningham place is almost completed.

To Start Work On Munn's Run Paving

Contractors Mountain and Cloran of Ironton, are preparing to start actual work on their contract of improving the Portsmouth-Jackson road soon in order to get the benefit of the good weather now prevailing. They expect to complete their contract in Wellston within a couple of weeks and will then move their equipment to the new job here. Shanties are now being erected for use of employes along the road to be improved and the work is to be performed with all possible speed.

County Engineer O. E. Noel and a force of assistant were busy on Thursday letting stakes for a number of culverts and work on these will be started at once. The paving of Munn's Run "Divide" will be completed first. The "Divide" will have a concrete base and will be paved with brick. This job is to be completed this fall. The stretch of road to be improved is a little over half a mile in length.

The contractors have until November, 1924, to complete the entire contract which includes about three miles of tar macadam improvement form Oertels Corner at Minford.

CHAPTER I

HOPE RANGER walked down the hall to her mother's sitting room.

The moment she had passed inside and closed the door behind her, a man servant stepped out of the automatic lift a little further along the corridor and followed her noiselessly. He had some letters on a tray, but it apparently was not his intention to deliver them at once. Instead, he paused close to the sitting-room door, his head inclined, listening.

As Hope entered, her mother looked up with a smile from some notes she was writing.

"Going out, darling?" she asked.

"I'm to meet Lucia at the Plaza," Hope explained. "Her mother will be there with some people, but we shan't bother with them. After luncheon, they are going on to a matinee—that, is Lucia and her mother are—but it's 'Philander,' and I've seen it three times, you know, so I begged off. I'll pick up some veils and a few things I need, and then home."

The man outside had his ear against the door now, unwilling to miss a word of conversation; but at the same time his eyes were watching alertly along the hall and down the staircase.

"I don't know, though," Hope reconsidered, "but that I'd better drop into Silcott's and hurry him up with those fittings. If by any miracle he is ready, I could telephone you to come down. Or, better still, come to luncheon with us, and then go there with me. Do, mother," she urged.

"No-o; I'll not tag. You and Lucia will enjoy yourselves more alone. Besides, I've no end of things to look after. Are you driving down, dear?"

"I need the walk," Hope shrugged lightly. "My ski is crying for air and exercise." She scrutinized her reflection in a dim mirror with a quaint, tarnished gilt frame.

Everything in this intimate room of Mrs. Ranger's was old and faintly tarnished. In her day she had been a beauty, Southern as her name, Mary Louise Beauchamp Carter—poor as poverty with generations of wealth behind her—born to a leaking family roof-tree, old family silver, old family pictures, old family-servants, the latter dwindled in number until none remained.

Her mother had pinned her last hope to Mary Lou; but before the lush girl was 20 she had lost her head over a rising young nobody at all, Loring Ranger, with less background than a chipmunk and no particularly substantial foreground, and had recklessly married him. Mrs. Carter shed tears steadily, and only abandoned them for equally steady smiles when she realized the genius of her son-in-law for making money hand over hand—lucky hands that turned everything they touched into gold. Then, completely reconciled, she give them her blessing, bestowed upon them the family heirlooms and departed this life in peace.

Hope turned now from the inspection of herself in the glass.

Mischievously she ruffled her mother's sleek head cuffing her affectionately first on one ear and then on the other, and, bending down, kissed her cheek.

"Goodby."

"Oh, wait a moment!" Mrs. Ranger caught her hand. "I forgot to tell you, your father won't be home this evening. He's having some out-of-town men at the club. Why shouldn't you and I do a play?"

"No reason on earth." Hope nodded. "Choose something neither of us has seen. A slushy, weepy one—the kind you like."

She had reached the door when her mother stopped her again.

"You'll telephone from Silcott's, you say, if he's ready for your fittings? That will be about three o'clock, I suppose?"

"Or even earlier."

The man servant was at the head of the stairs with his tray of letters as Hope came out.

"Anything for me, Fitch?"

"No, Miss Ranger; they're all for Mrs. Ranger."

Hope ran down the stairs. A moment later she was walking through the cross-street on which they lived, and at the corner she turned down Fifth avenue.

She walked on down the avenue, and crossing over at Fifty-ninth street, arrived at the Plaza just as her friend, Lucia Thorne, and the latter's mother alighted from a limousine which had drawn up before the entrance.

Meanwhile, the man who had been listening at the keyhole stole furtively out of the house by an area door and made his way to a telephone station in the back of a nearby store.

CHAPTER II

A WESTERN manufacturer, one of Loring Ranger's two guests at dinner that evening, was just reaching the point of a story which had been interrupted by frequent bursts of laughter when the club hall-boy approached the table and informed Mr. Ranger that he was wanted on the telephone. Ranger laid down the cigar he had lighted.

He made his way through the dining-room, a big, good-looking, dominant man, and into a telephone booth.

"Loring!" His wife's voice came quaveringly over the wire. "I'm terribly worried. Hope went out this morning and hasn't come back yet. And it is nine o'clock."

"Where did she go?" he asked.

"To have luncheon with Lucia Thorne. Then she expected to do an errand or two and come home."

Ranger laughed easily.

"She's gone on some party with Lucia. Probably she telephoned, and they've neglected to give you the message."

"No," Mrs. Ranger's tone was positive. "I've questioned all of the servants. Then I called up the Thornes. Mrs. Thorne says that Hope left them a few minutes after two, telling them just what she told me, about attending to her errands and then coming home. She and I weregoing to a play this evening."

"Now, now, Mary Lou," he spoke soothingly, "there's no reason to get excited. You know as well as I do that Hope's perfectly able to look out for herself—no one better."

But he was frowning as he uttered the reassuring words; the incident disturbed him more than he cared to have his wife know.

"You're all in," he said, pretending to be concerned only on her account; "so I'm coming home at once. If she isn't there before I am, I'll trace her for you in no time."

He glanced at his watch as he hung up the receiver. Twenty minutes after nine.

He lost no time in excusing himself to his guests, and, hurrying out to a taxi, told the chauffer to take him home, and "step on it."

Making a brave effort to control her agitation, Mrs. Ranger recounted as faithfully as she could the conversation between Hope and herself that morning and the program the girl had outlined for her movements.

Ranger, who had listened intently to her report, gave a puzzled shake HOPE TURNED FROM THE IN- of the head, and, stepping into the hall spoke to the butler.

SPECTION OF HERSELF IN THE GLASS.

"I've set for Higby," he said, returning. "He'll probably laugh at us as a couple of fools. But I don't care. We need the cool advice of an outsider."

Eustace Higby was Ranger's attorney and a warm friend of the family, with an apartment only half a block away.

"The trouble is, we've given her too free a hand, Mary Lou," Ranger grumbled. "Ah!" starting up as he heard the hall door close. "There she is now!"

But it was Higby, the lawyer, not Hope, who in response to the butler's direction turned into the library.

"Something wrong?" he asked sharply.

But as the explanation proceeded, the lines about his eyes began to crinkle, and at the finish, as Ranger had predicted, he gave a mirthful chuckle.

"I'm satisfied you two are making a mountain out of a very insignificant molehill," he insisted optimistically. "Still, to relieve all of our minds, I'll make sure."

He busied himself at the telephone, his investigations lasting some time, owing to the extreme care he took to avoid any opportunity for publicity; but in the end he was able to announce that no young woman answering to the description of Hope Ranger had been reported at any of the hospitals or station-houses of the city as the victim of an accident or sudden illness.

The lawyer sat thinking, pulling at his chin. Then he got up with an air of decision and reached for his hat.

"I'm going down to talk to Lucia Thorne," he said. "She was the last person we know of that Hope saw, and her most intimate friend, wasn't she? Well—" in answer to Mrs. Ranger's eager nod—"that young woman is in for the stiffest kind of a cross-examination. If she knows anything she isn't telling, trust me to frighten it out of her before I get through. If she's a blank—" he paused and pursed up his lips—"then I guess there's nothing to do, Loring, but go to the commissioner of police."

"The commissioner of police?" Ranger drew his brows together, wincing at the thought of the attendant notoriety.

"If it comes to that—yes. There's no use fooling away time in half-measures or with private detectives. To get the best results, though, I'll have to offer a reward, I suppose. How high would you be willing to go?"

"Anything." Ranger gave an indifferent wave of the hand. "Whatever is customary."

Higby considered the matter. "I'll tell you," he decided, "we'll make it five thousand to start with. Then we can increase it to ten if necessary. I'm right on the job every minute, and there won't be a stone left unturned. I'll keep in touch with you, too, so that we can advise each other immediately of any developments."

"Thanks, old man." Ranger's voice was husky as he followed him to the door. "I don't know what we should have done without you."

CHAPTER III

OUTSIDE, Higby caught a passing taxicab and and, giving the number of the Thorne residence, slammed the door and sank back wearily.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Will you tell me if there is a country by the name of Epirus Moscopolis.

SCHOOL BOY.

There is no country by that name unless they have re-named one since I studied geography, and I don't think they would do anything like that without asking me about it, do you?

Dear Dolly—I am a married lady of 22 and I love my home and my husband above everything else in the world. Dolly, my husband tells me he is going away on business and he will go and stay two and three days at a time, but not on business. He is away on a drunk. He is drinking so regular that I know he is going to break up our home if he doesn't stop. I am worrying myself to death. Please Dolly give me some good advice.

WORRIED WIFE.

If you have been sitting by and letting him go off and carouse around for two and three days at a time, I think it high time that you take a hand and straighten him out while the straightening is good. Just pack your little grip the next time he says he is going away and go with him. If he goes to a place to drink you can do the "Maggie Jiggs" or "Carrie Nation" stunt and clean up on the whole bunch. If you don't want to do this, see that he stays at home. He may bluff around about what he is going to do, but he won't do it, if he sees that you mean business. Don't worry, and don't whine and don't nag—get busy and do something.

Bristol, Florida—Dear Dolly—I was born on February 28, 1895 and I have had my bitterness and sweets all of my days. Dolly, please tell me if my hard luck is going to change for the better in the future or not? I hope you have good news for me. I am in good health at the present writing.

SOUTHERN TIMES READER.

I am sorry to announce that I can't foretell what is in store for you in the future, but I am sure your life will be what you make it—happy and contented, or otherwise. People generally get what they give. Since you are enjoying good health, that is one blessing, and if you will sit down and take an inventory of your life, I think you can find a blessing for every cross that you have to bear, in case you have had to bear any. Since you are well past the half century mark, here's hoping that the evening of your life will be happier than the beginning, and you will make up your mind to look on the bright side of life no matter how dark the day.

NEW BOSTON READER—If you will ask the mayor out there he can tell you, as I understand he is a member.

J. H. L.—I fear you will have to get a chemist to answer your question, as I have never had any practical experience with materials mentioned and I could not give you the exact proportions nor the results.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

MISTER GADABOUT GOBBLER

And, oh, but he was proud of himself.

Mister Turkey Gobbler was the limit. He was always gadding about somewhere or other, with his wife and relations trailing after him, poor things, until they were almost dead. Even the children had to tote along, because their mammy was afraid to leave them at home alone.

And, oh, but he was proud of himself.

As Mister Dodger said to the Twins, the peacock at the palace wasn't in it when old Mister Gobbler spread out his tail like a fan, and got red in the face, and swelled himself out like a Fourth of July balloon ready to go up.

"Why does he like to gad about so?" asked Nancy.

"Because he is vain, I suppose, and likes to show himself off," answered Mister Dodger, blowing a cloud of corn-silk smoke out of his corn-cob pipe. Then he pulled his corn-husk hat down over his eyes and said, "Come on, Twins. That reminds me. I heard Farmer Smith say to Farmer Brown that if he didn't keep his turkeys out of his buckwheat field something dreadful was going to happen to them."

"Do they tramp it down?" Nick inquired.

"No, they swallow it down," nodded Mister Dodger. "They snip it off with their bills and eat it. I don't blame Farmer Smith for getting cross. Well, it's getting dark now and the moon is coming up, and Mister Gadabout and his family will be coming back to sleep on top of the woodpile. Yes, sir, there they come now."

The Twins looked toward the place where Mister Dodger was pointing, and sure enough! There was a long dark line trailing slowly along toward the barnyard. They knew it must be the turkeys, for nothing else could move so slowly—except molasses in winter time.

Pretty soon Mister Gadabout flew up to his roosting place, then his wife and then his children, and then all of his relations.

And before long they were sound asleep.

"Now, then, Nancy!" said Mister Dodger. "Have you got a bit of red ribbon about you?"

Nancy had the very thing right in her pocket.

"Well, I declare! That's lucky," said the fairyman. "Can you tie a bow, Nancy? I never was any good at it."

"Yes, indeed!" cried the little girl excitedly. "What do you want to know for?"

"Because we're going to tie a large red bow of ribbon right around Mister Gobbler's neck. When he wakens tomorrow he's going to be the most surprised bird in Squealy-Moo Land. I'll tell you why later."

Boat Delayed; Excursion Off

A decision to call off the Ohio river boat excursion planned for Saturday night on the steamer "America," was the main business before members of Elhrose Temple, Pythian Sisters, last night. Word was received yesterday from the manager of the boat that the steamer could not reach here by Saturday night, but would be here sure Monday night. This new date proved unsatisfactory and it was decided to call off the excursion.

On next Thursday night the monthly social session will be observed with Group Two, Mrs. Valeska Sieling, chairman; in charge of the entertainment plans. The Group promises a number of surprises and a 100 per cent attendance is urged as the members of the Group are spending considerable time and effort in arranging the social affair.

CALLED OFF

Owing to the low stage of water, it will be impossible for the Steamer American to reach here and the Moonlight excursion which was to have been given by the D. O. K. K. Brigands and Pythian Sisters, Saturday evening has been called off. Advertisement.

Sallie Ann Says

Little women, who always have to have ready made dresses made over for them, will take pleasure in this group of Sunnymaid dresses that arrived this morning. They are designed and cut especially to fit the little woman and miss. They are made in both the twills and the silks and are extremely charming and youthful.

One little dress of black satin faced canton, has collar, cuffs and wide hem band of black curly silk astrakan and an oval ornament of bright embroidery at the waist. It is very attractive.

Another is in a fine poirct twill in coat effect that fastens at the side. The collar is handsomely trimmed with fancy braid next to green crepe de chine. One of the nice features of these Sunnymaid dresses is that, though beautifully made, they are inexpensive, only $28.00.

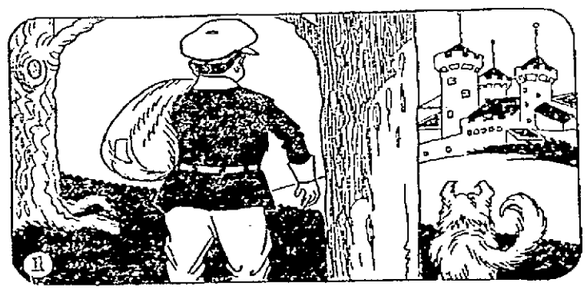

I was much interested, this morning, in a group of coats The Fashion is featuring at $63.50. They are made of high grade Lusterbolivia and lined with grey silk crepe. The fur collars are of grey squirrel, genuine beaver, platinum wolf and Taupe Wolf. I consider these wonderful values as most stores are asking around a hundred dollars for any sort of a coat trimmed with these furs.

More Sunday.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — IN THE OLDEN CASTLE

BY ELTON

Have you ever gone hunting through the woods for hickory nuts? Well that's what Jack Daw was doing when he discovered a great castle that he had never seen before. Jack had just about filled his sack with nuts when, just ahead of him, the beautiful castle appeared.

Gee, thought the little adventurer, I certainly would like to see what the inside of that place looks like. And at that moment, as he stood staring at the great stone building, a little balloon floated out of one of the windows. It soared slowly down toward Jack.

"Oh!" shouted the boy, "someone has lost a balloon, as the big round bag of air came floating down to him and he grabbed it. He then discovered that the balloon was capable of lifting him up as he held it tightly. (Continued.)

Four Rivers Run Parallel.

Kingdom Ward, who has returned from Burma after eleven months spent in the Tibetan-Yunnan marshes, made a complete traverse, east to west, of that extraordinary belt of the earth's crust through which the waters of the Tibetan plateau escape. Here four of the greatest rivers of Asia flow in a strip of mountainous country not more than 75 miles wide. There is nothing elsewhere on the earth's surface to compare with these mighty rivers—the Yangtse, Mekong, Salween and Irawadi—running parallel to each other for a hundred miles and separated only by rock partitions which in places attain altitudes of 25,000 feet.—London Times.

The Irish of It.

It was during the dry spell and a shower having come up, Doctor Blank remarked to his gardener: "This rain will do a lot of good, Patrick."

"It will that, sorr," returned Pat. "Shure an hour of it now will do more good in five minutes than a month of it would do in a week at any other time."—Boston Transcript.

HEALTH REGAINED!

How Well Worth While It Was, for These Women, That They Took CARDUI, the Woman's Tonic

Weakened Condition-- "I was in a very weakened condition . . . pale and thin, hardly able to go," says Mrs. Bessie (J. B.) Bearden, a resident of Central, South Carolina. "I would suffer when I stood on my feet, with pains in my sides and body.

"I did not rest well and didn't want anything to eat.

"My color was bad and I felt miserable.

"A friend of mine told me of Cardui, and then I remembered my mother used to take it. . . . After taking the first bottle I was better. I began to flesh up, and I regained my strength and good healthy color. I am feeling fine. I took twelve bottles (of Cardui) and haven't had a bit of trouble since. My present health is good."

Suffered Seven Years-- "When my baby was about five weeks old, I caught cold, and was a very sick woman from that time," says Mrs. Lucien Jacobs, 2223 Marais Street, New Orleans, La. "I was unable to do my work. I did not know what it was to feel well a day. . . . I suffered and suffered for seven long years, just the shadow of a woman hanging on, not fit to do anything, just a bunch of nerves, aches and pains!

"Someone told me of Cardui. . . . I soon found it was helping me, first my nerves, then I began to gain strength. I knew then I had found the right medicine. I took it faithfully, and I grew strong and well — the nice part of it, I stayed that way."

Backaches, Headaches-- "About fifteen or seventeen years ago, I had a severe sick spell," says Mrs. L. H. Slough, of 1128 Alleghaney Avenue, Lynchburg, Va. "I would suffer a great deal with misery in my back. My back would be so weak it felt just like it would break. I could hardly straighten. . . . I could not go from weakness. I heard of Cardui at that time, and took a number of bottles and was regulated, and put in good health.

"When change of life came on I was very nervous, and the severe backache came on again. I could hardly straighten up, and had headaches, too. I took Cardui. The pain grew less. I got stronger and passed through the change. I am now in splendid health."

Sides and Back Hurt-- "I suffered a great deal with weakness common to women," says Mrs. Buena McFarland, of Bostic, N. C. "I had bearing-down pains, my sides and back hurt and my limbs drew. I would get so weak in my knees I could scarcely stand. I was very nervous and could not rest. I didn't feel like eating. I grew thin, and did not have ambition for anything.

"I had been trying other remedies, but did not get any better. Some one told us of Cardui and what it was recommended for. . . . I told my husband to get it and I would try it. I saw a great improvement after the first bottle (of Cardui), so I kept it up until I was well. Now I am the picture of health."

Back and Hips Ached-- "My back and hips gave me a great deal of trouble before my first baby was born," says Mrs. W. J. Daugherty, of Gadsden, Ala. "The second time, I had the same trouble, only worse. . . . Medicines did me no good at all; in fact, I got worse instead of better. . . . A neighbor, Mrs. E——, told me about Cardui. My husband got me a bottle and I started on it at once. Immediately I began to improve. . . .

"For female trouble it (Cardui) can't be beat. I gave it to my daughter when she was 13. I took it because I suffered so from aching all over — arms, legs and head. My head would ache for weeks at a time. After taking Cardui, I have completely recovered."

Dizzy, Fainty Spells-- "I was in a very serious condition from some womanly weakness," says Mrs. Mary Smith, 677 Orange Street, Chillicothe, Ohio. "My back and limbs were so weak until it was an effort for me to get up or down. I had misery in my head, and just ached at times until I couldn't rest. I would have dizzy, fainty spells and just stagger. I didn't have an appetite. . . . My nerves were gone. I was a wreck. . . .

"Was told Cardui might help me. I began to use it, and after a short time I could see I was being gradually made stronger. I quit having these weak spells. I ate and seemed to relish what I ate. I would sleep without waking up at night. I grew strong and well."

Pains All Over-- "I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. James Hall, of Magee, Miss. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman — used to outdoor exercise, walking and going when and where I pleased — and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship.

"Nothing seemed to help me till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me; and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these I was on my feet. . . . I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. I haven't had any more sickness."

Nervous Sleeplessness-- "Sometime ago I began suffering with womanly weakness and was in a very bad condition," says Mrs. Cora Newsom, of Ashland, Ky. "My trouble was weakness and nervousness. I was just a shadow — I didn't weigh but a hundred pounds. I was so nervous I couldn't rest nor sleep. I didn't have an appetite, in fact, did not want to eat. I just dragged around — seemed like I couldn't lift my feet. I heard of Cardui as a good tonic and I began to use it. After (taking) six bottles I was like a different person. I worked and enjoyed life. I began to eat heartily, sleep well, and weighed 160 pounds. I certainly can recommend Cardui. I also used it during . . . and it gave me strength and relieved the tired, weak feeling in my back."

A Woman Is "As Old As She Walks"

"A woman may be as old as she looks" when seated, but the minute she gets up you know at once that she is as old as she walks.

A light springy step speaks of youth as definitely as a fresh complexion; but the walk of youth, unlike the peaches and cream of the skin, cannot be counterfeited. You can tell by watching her for only a few steps whether a woman really enjoys walking.

Modease is a youth-giving shoe. The high, flexible arch affords grace and freedom of action. The Modease wearer drops a dozen years from her age and says "Let's go," just like the other young folks of her family.

Yet Modease is by no means a shoe for the middle-aged only. Many of our best Modease customers are high school girls who like the smart lines and easy feeling of Modease. They like the fact that it can be worn without change for any sport not requiring a special type of shoe, and they like the looks of Modease with their sport clothes.

Modense is "The Comfort Shoe that's also Smart." It is made by J. & T. Cousins.

THE COMFORT SHOE Modease THAT'S ALSO SMART

We would value very highly the privilege of fitting you with a pair of Modease Shoes. This experimental fitting involves no obligation on your part and will be made at any time convenient to you.

Does Portsmouth Boast A Baby Peggy?

Has Portsmouth a "double" for Baby Peggy of the movies? The Eastland theater would like to find her—or a number of Baby Peggies—and it will offer numerous prize awards to several Portsmouth girls who most closely resemble this famous child star of the silver screen. Now, proud parents, here's your chance! Read this: Baby Peggy, as most theater-goers know, is the cutest and most lovable child in the movies. She is not quite four years old, but she is a full-fledged star, drawing a salary running into four figures a week. Audiences have raved over her in some of the biggest pictures of recent months, and so now she has been brought out in a whole series of delightful comedies, written especially to display her amazing charms. One of the comedies, called "Taking Orders" will be shown at The Eastland Theatre commencing Oct. 1st. Little Peggy is so clever, cunning and lovable in this picture that the entire country has gone into raptures over her. Out in Los Angeles, where she was discovered by the movie people, the whole town expands its chest and has to wear a larger hat when it talks about her. Los Angeles loudly proclaims that Baby Peggy has all other children in the country backed off the boards. Now, The Eastland admits that Baby Peggy is a wonder, but it doesn't think she is "got that way" just from living in Los Angeles. It thinks that Los Angeles was just lucky in happening to find such a child. The Eastland thinks there are just as cute, lovable and possibly as clever children in Portsmouth and vicinity. To prove its contention, it wants to find them, hence, the Eastland "Baby Peggy" Contest. All Portsmouth children who look like her are eligible to enter this contest up to the age of seven years. If doesn't make any difference what their names are; they don't have to be named Peggy. All that is necessary is that they look like Peggy of the movies—which means pretty, bright and exceedingly lovable. Of course, mothers, the more your little girl is dressed like Peggy dresses in the pictures, the better chance she stands of being chosen. At 8 o'clock Tuesday, October 2, all the "Baby Peggies" of Portsmouth are requested to come to The Eastland Theatre. There will be a big reception for the youngsters and their mothers. Bring your youngsters made up in Baby Peggy costumes if possible, but bring them anyway. Undoubtedly there will be a big crowd and lots of fun. A committee of prominent citizens will select from the contestants the ones they think most closely resembles Baby Peggy.

The Eastland will distribute the prizes: First prize $15.00; second prize $10.00; third prize $5.00; fourth prize the Baby Peggy Doll, donated by Louis Amberg and Sons. The attached coupon, properly filled out, will admit one little Baby Peggy and her mother to The Eastland Theatre on Tuesday, October 2, at 8 p. m.

Plan For Tri-State Rally

Seven applications were received at the weekly meeting of George A. Ditty Camp, W. O. W., New Boston, last night, when further plans were discussed for a tri-state rally to be held in New Boston October 21. One candidate, Rev. W. L. Huffman, was given the degree work last night and nine applicants favorably acted upon were obligated. The nine included C. V. Smith, Philip Bolander, Fred Arnold, Richard Morton, Norman Bandy, Edward Davis, John Wade, Harry Stapleton and Fred Cooey.

Kearns Blocked Ford's Plan To Buy Muscle Shoals

NEUDOERFER & SILCOX
Distributors

Washington Bureau
Portsmouth Sun-Times

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28—Representative Chas. C. Kearns of Batavia, who occupies the seat in Congress allotted to the Sixth Ohio District, can cavort in glee over the sale of the Gorgas steam plant at Muscle Shoals to the Alabama Power Co., apparently eliminating Henry Ford as a possible purchaser of the Shoals plant for the manufacture of cheap nitrates.

Kearns had nothing to do with the sale, but he fought the Ford offer for months on the floor of Congress, sometimes almost single handed, and submitted a minority report condemning it as a member of the Military Affairs Committee, after a majority of that committee had recommended its acceptance.

The Batavia congressman's opposition to the proposition made the government by Henry Ford was that the Detroit manufacturer stood to profit immeasurably by it and that it would mean the U. S. would "sell for a song" properties which cost millions to build.

When attacked by representatives of farm organizations for his attitude Kearns replied that Ford would only obligate himself to turn out 1,000,000 tons of nitrate fertilizer a year at Muscle Shoals and that this would not begin to supply the needs of American farmers. He also declared that Ford planned to use nine-tenths of the power which he would develop at Muscle Shoals for his own private ends and would reap a huge income by selling it to industrial users throughout the South.

While it is felt here that Congress would unquestionably have turned the Shoals plant over to Ford on the terms which he offered had not the contract which the government made with the Alabama Power Co., during the war forced the sale of the Gorgas steam unit, Ohio Congressmen take the view that they are well rid of the problem which has already been threshed out over a year's time without decisive action, and would no doubt have proven a bone of contention in the next Congress.

They do not believe Ford will renew his offer for Muscle Shoals now that the Gorgas plant is gone, despite an official statement from the White House that the status of the Muscle Shoals situation was unchanged by the Gorgas sale.

Whether Congressman Kearns and his colleagues will advocate government operation of the Shoals nitrate plant is uncertain. Decided opposition among the Ohio members of both parties to entry of the government into business is expected to be renewed against direct government management of the nitrate plant. In the event that no private corporation came forward with an acceptable bid to lease it, however, it is not probable that a plan will be devised to get the wheels turning at Muscle Shoals under some form of government regulation.

Condemned Man Is Slain As He Tries To Escape Jailers

DALLAS, TEX, Sept. 28— Willis Champion, assistant night jailer, and C. E. Gaines, under a death sentence for murder in connection with a postoffice robbery here, were killed and Peter Welk, another prisoner, was probably fatally wounded in an attempted jail delivery which got no farther than a pistol fight on the sixth floor of the Dallas county jail last night. The jailer was preparing to place a man in one of the cells when Gaines and Kelk suddenly covered him with pistols. A prisoner said the jailer threw away the keys and Gaines fired.

A negro prisoner operating an elevator notified the jail force of the attempted break and in a short fight Gaines was shot and killed and Welk badly wounded.

Dr. Wishart Presides In Presbyterian Body At Atlantic City, N. J.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 28—A committee to devise means for reducing the size of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church was appointed by Dr. Charles F. Wishart of Wooster, O., moderator of the assembly and presiding officer at the session of the general council meeting here.

Those who advocated a change in the representation of the Presbyteries throughout the United States asserted that the general assembly has become an unwieldly body and the reduction of its size would insure increased efficiency. The assembly has 1,000 members, the laymen and ministers being equally divided. Under the present plan from 2 to 12 members are appointed to the assembly from each Presbytery.

The general council adjourned to meet tomorrow afternoon in New York City with the general secretaries of all boards.

In the summer the descendants of a single fly will number 2,080,320.

Graduate Nurse Finds "The Perfect Remedy"

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say I consider Tanlac the most efficient and natural stomach medicine and tonic to be had. It is undoubtedly nature's most perfect remedy," is the far-reaching statement given out for publication recently, by Mrs. I. A. Borden, 425 Pontius Ave., Seattle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital, Chicago.

"I have used Tanlac exclusively for seven years in the treatment of my charity patients," said Mrs. Borden, "and my experience has been that for keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal.

"About a year ago, I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach fifteen minutes, not even water. I prevailed on her to try Tanlac and after the sixth bottle she could eat absolutely anything she wanted without the slightest bad after-effects.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I got him started on Tanlac and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and able to work.

"These two instances that are typical of the wonderful merits of the medicine. My confidence in Tanlac is unlimited."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

Will Address Sunday School

Edwin R. Erett, editor of the Bible School Worker, and prominent speaker of the Disciples of Christ Brotherhood, will arrive in the city at two-thirty tomorrow afternoon and will make an address at First Christian Sunday morning at the Bible school hour.

Members of the First Christian school are planning to give Mr. Erett a good hearing on this, his first visit to Portsmouth and they are urging all the old members to invite their friends and be there at the appointed hour.

Sunday marks the first special evangelistic day in the Bible school and many of the folk who have been working up to this day with the object of having some of their friends or loved ones come into the church will no doubt see the results of their work and the answer to their prayers.

The doors will be wide open at nine o'clock and a big handshake with a smile and friendly word will greet all who come.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Rotarians Say Farewell To Rev. Powell

Honoring Rev. E. Ainger Powell, retiring pastor of All Saints Episcopal church, who next week will leave for another charge in Evansville, Ind., members of the Rotary Club held a farewell for their brother Rotarian, at the close of their regular meeting, last evening at Tarlorton Woods, summer home of Harry E. Taylor.

After supper, Rev. G. M. Howerton, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, presented Rev. Mr. Powell with a beautiful traveling bag, on behalf of the departing pastor's brother members.

In a graceful response, Rev. Mr. Powell expressed his appreciation of the reception he has received while in Portsmouth, spoke of the regret with which he leaves his charge here and his many friends throughout the city, especially those warm friendships which have been built up within the Rotary Club, but stated that in going to Evansville, he enters a field of wider usefulness and service.

Denounces Conduct Of Certain Dry Agents

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 28 —Judge Joseph H. Woeste of Municipal Court today strongly denounced the actions of certain prohibition officers when he sentenced Harry C. Miller, chief prohibition officer of the Loveland, O., "liquor law court" to 60 days in jail and fined him $500 and costs on charges of drunkenness and unlawfully possessing liquor.

Joseph Yaffee, Miller's assistant, was fined $50 and costs on a charge of unlawfully possessing liquor.

The two agents were arrested by city policemen, who testified they raided a flat in which Miller and Yaffee and others were having a "party." The policemen said they found a bottle of whisky and two kegs of beer, with labels on the kegs indicating that the beer had been confiscated in a raid conducted previously by the prohibition agents.

Says Liberty Menaced.

Judge Woeste in sentencing Miller declared the liberty of the people is menaced by certain of these officials and that more consideration is shown murderers than violators of the prohibition laws. He condemned the fee splitting arrangement of the liquor courts and said that in his opinion they were unconstitutional.

In an effort to stamp out the manufacture of moonshine liquor, Municipal Court Prosecutor Chauncey Pichel has decided that hereafter all persons arrested for manufacturing whisky will be charged under the new amendment of the Crabbe act. This amendment makes it a felony to manufacture distilled liquor.

The new law provides a fine of $500 to $3,000 for the first offense and prison sentences of 1 to 5 years. This law only applies to manufacturing liquor.

Attacks Federal Law.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 27.—Action is to be started in Federal Court here attacking the constitutionality of section 7 title 2 national prohibition act, which provides that no doctor can prescribe more than one pint of whisky in 10 days for one person.

Dr. Henry Price, Toledo, prays an injunction restraining all prohibition agents from interfering with his prescription of whisky as a medicine. Suit, which is a civil action, is filed against J. E. Russell, federal prohibition director of Ohio; David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue; A. E. Bernsteen, U. S. attorney, Cleveland, and all others charged with enforcement of the prohibition law. Federal Judge John M. Killits will hear the suit.

Evacuation Of Constantinople Commenced By The Allies

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28 —(By the A. P.)—The American naval flotilla here is preparing for the dispersal of its units throughout the Black Sea and Aegan waters. While ostensibly the nature of the usual cruise after target practice off Prinkipo Island, it is understood that the move was really dictated by a desire that the fleet be absent from the evacuation ceremonies when the last of the allied warships leave the Golden Horn.

There has been considerable agitation among the Turks against the maintenance of the American flotilla here and this is continuing unabated.

Evacuation Is Begun.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28 —(By the A. P.)—The British postoffice, the last of such establishments maintained by the allies, closed last night and the Turks took over all mails.

Preparations for the formal evacuation by the allies have been completed and the famous Turkish iron division is soon to enter the city.

The exodus of Greeks, Armenians and Russians continues and all outward bound ships are crowded. The cancellation of westbound traffic because of the Bulgarian situation has added to the general confusion and congestion.

The Soviet patriation commission, which arrived some days ago is still held in quarantine, a circumstance which is understood to be causing the government some embarrassment.

Several thousand Russian refugees are still here. Many of them are political personages and it is believed that the soviet government is trying to bring about their return also. Angora has never declared its position regarding these refugees, but the Moslem religion compels asylum for them. Public opinion generally is against giving up any except the lawless and beggar elements.

Returns To Waverly For His Second Year

WAVERLY, O., Sept. 28.—Rev. A. E. McCullough, popular pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, greatly to the delight of his congregation and of the community, was returned to the Waverly pastorate for his second year by the Ohio Annual Conference, which convened in Oakwood church, Columbus.

His son, Rev. Arthur McCullough, a young man of ability and promise, begins his ministerial career at McDermott-Minford in the Portsmouth District, to which charge he was assigned.

WADDELL CALLS ON DRY BOSS

A Washington correspondent in his daily letter to The Columbus Dispatch had the following of local interest:

Doc Waddell, the veteran circus man of Columbus, called on Maj. Roy Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, and delivered a message that warmed the cockles of the major's heart. He said that during his long experience in the sawdust ring he had never known a year when there was so much orderliness among circus folks and among the patrons of circuses as during the present year. Major Haynes construed this report from a circus expert as a sure indication that John Barleycorn is on the run.

Case Taken Under Advisement

IRONTON, Sept. 28.—Judge Layne yesterday heard a motion by Attorneys Johnson and Jones, representing the Ironton Stove and Manufacturing Company, that the bond of Joseph Selb, a taxpayer, be increased to $15,000 in his suit against the City of Ironton and the above company. Selb had heretofore been granted a temporary injunction restraining the stove company from occupying or blocking two alleys and a part of Front street, recently vacated by the city Council. His bond now is set at $300.

At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Layne announced that he would take the case under advisement.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Ruby Ellis, R. R. 4, Box 34, Girard, Kansas.

MEETING AS ONE BIG FAMILY PORTSMOUTH AND IRONTON CITIZENS CELEBRATE ROAD OPENING

Close to 400 persons, meeting as one big family of representative citizens from Portsmouth and Ironton, joined in the exercises yesterday afternoon that marked the dedication of the completion of the connecting link of permanent improved highway between the two cities. The citizens participating were most sincere in their purpose and everyone who attended was profuse in his thanks for those who so successfully arranged such a meeting which cemented closer the ties of friendship between the neighboring cities. The crowd was not only representative of the two cities, but also of the two counties, Scioto and Lawrence, a sprinkling of folk from the rural communities being on hand.

The dedication exercises were staged on the lawn of Forest Academy which is along the latest stretch of road to be improved and thrown open to travel. This latest paving is also the connecting link in the Atlantic-Pacific Highway improvement between Ironton and Portsmouth.

The program moved off on schedule. President E. J. Merrill of the Ironton Chamber of Commerce, caning the assembly to order at three o'clock, after which he asked Rev. A. Gilruth to give the invocation. Rev. Gilruth, a retired Methodist minister in the Ohio Conference, formerly served the Franklin Furnace district, and is now back from Chicago on a visit in that community.

Chairman Merrill then introduced his good friend, Mayor "Bill" Gableman of Portsmouth, "a man who has done great things."

Mayor Gableman, addressing the meeting then said:

"There used to be the story told by travelers of the most wonderful thing to be found in Mayor Stewart's town of Ironton, it was that afternoon train for Portsmouth. This great convenience kept the visitors from having to spend the night in Ironton.

"We don't know whether this was the motive or not, but several years ago our up-river Suburb got busy and built a modern hotel. Then the pert neighboring newspaper scribe said that this was fine; Ironton was always a good town to sleep in.

"Ironton folks apparently don't like to be "kidded." They next hustled about and built a bridge over the Ohio and then they completed their link of the paved roadway leading to our Metropolis of Southern Ohio. They reasoned that if the sojourner doesn't care to tarry within their hospitable gates they would make it easy to get away. But for anyone so misguided as to go into Kentucky in preference to staying on Buckeye soil they would exact a penalty. He must pay toll to the bridge tender. It costs nothing to use this modern artery of travel to Peerless Progressive Portsmouth and, besides, the unsurpassed scenery of the trip is all thrown in.

"But we are not going to concede that Ironton is the only city so accommodating. We want to recall the fact that Scioto County has done some road-building, too. Of its seventy miles of permanent road construction about 20 miles has been toward Ironton objective. So if our Ironton friends have taken to heart any of these little pleasantries I will be more conciliatory. We should admit that it is because we think so well of them that we have incurred this heavy outlay. We have realized the mutual benefit of a more intimate intercourse with our neighbors This is true in both a business and social sense. In work and play there is the advantage of co-operation, and in rivalries, if you please,—for this is what brings out the best in communities as well as individuals. It may be proper to confess that there is method in our madness. One of these days, we will be extending our corporation limits to take in Ironton, and we want all of Mayor Stewart's constituents to commence to feel at home with us.

"I am going to leave it too others to furnish the statistics of road-building and its related subjects, all of which are of vital interest. Still others may invisage for us this favored section as the rapidly forthcoming workshop of the world. At that time when this vast industrial belt is traversed by a completed Atlantic and Pacific Highway, can we not swell with pride as pioneers of modern road construction?

"This thought prompts me to pay a deserved tribute to my home city, Portsmouth. For a dozen years now its tax payers have ungrudgingly paid an additional two mills for permanent highways. No part of this income has been expended within the city's limits. It has gone to give the farmer better opportunity to market his crops, for the tradesmen to facilitate his transportation and to lessen the hardships of rural school and family life. The full significance of this is, that with its relatively low tax rate just announced, if relieved of these two mills, Portsmouth would have a total levy of but eighteen mills, three mills of which is an additional school levy by vote. The point I desire to make is, that in these days of dire financial stress among so many Ohio cities, Portsmouth is actually within the fifteen-mill limit of the unjustly maligned Smith Law. The moral of the story, as I see it, is that our City's generosity toward these twin factors of progress—good schools and good roads has reacted in giving us a progressive, contented community, happily functioning within its income. We have exploded the fiction that a growing city must needs plunge itself hopelessly in debt.

These are matters of our mutual interest and upon this felicitious occasion we extend to our sister city, our prettiest compliments and our heartiest best wishes for its continued growth and prosperity."

Mayor Earl H. Stewart of Ironton was then called to the platform by Mr. Merrill. Speaking extemporaneously, he assured Mayor Gablemun that, despite his "kidding", he liked him immensely on first sight. Embarking on a similar theme to the remarks which opened his predecessor's address, he reminded the meeting that, passing through Portsmouth several days ago, he had observed erection of a new church, commenting that Portsmouth needed a couple more. "Oh, no," he added, is wasn't Portsmouth after all, but New Boston. And by the way, we'll come into your city whenever New Boston does.

"Satisfied with the hit he had scored, Mayor Stewart urged activities looking to completion of the A-P highway, first through Ohio, and then through neighboring states until it reaches from ocean to ocean, bringing travel through the Ohio Valley in a volume proportional to the valley's economic importance and its multifold advantages.

"Viewing this completed stretch of boulevard," Mayor Stewart continued, "I am reminded to hark back to Mayor Gableman's comment on Ironton's bridge, and his statement that we built it after years of need. It is true that for many years we were forced to swim the Ohio, but only by the practice thus gained were we enabled to swim the swamp which has separated us from Portsmouth until the completion of this highway."

About 80 machines were parked near the scene of the meeting. The traffic congestion which resulted by arrival of the delegations, was capably handled by a troop of Portsmouth Scouts, under the direction of Scout Master L. T. Henderson, assisted by an Ironton troop led by Scout Master R. E. Leonard.

A committee representing the ladies of the Haverhill M. E. Church sold refreshments on the grounds.

To Portsmouth goes the credit for conceiving the idea of the celebration, but to Ironton goes the credit for executing it in a most able manner. The Chambers of Commerce of the two cities worked out the program, the Ironton Chamber being permitted to assume active charge.

The representation from Portsmouth was gratifying, according to observers at the scene. Lined up in a the yellow ribbon provided by the circle around the speaking stand, an idea of the relative proportion of attendance from the two cities was given by the badges worn, three out of every four in the front row wearing Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the acid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

Killed As He Drank

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—A man known only to police as "Frank the Barber," was killed as he was raising a glass to his lips in an East Side restaurant last night. "Frank the Barber" entered the restaurant with nine companions. The chef heard fifteen shots a moment later and found him dead with four bullets in the abdomen. On a cigar case over his head were three flower pieces with the words "Good Luck" in the center. The nine had fled.

Klan Holds Meet

WORCESTER, MASS., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—While a squad of fifty policemen patrolled the streets in front of Mechanics' Hall and virtually the entire reserve force was kept ready at police stations for any emergencies, the Worcester Ku Klux Klan conducted a meeting attended by a crowd that filled every seat in the hall and made necessary an overflow meeting in another hall.

Pin Taken From Throat

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 28.—(By the Associated Press)—William W. Johnson, Jr., five months old, whose parents rushed him here with an open safety pin lodged in his esophagus, will return to his home in Concord, N. C., tomorrow with his happy parents and without the pin. After two days observation during which an x-ray photograph was taken and studied, Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of Jefferson Medical College Hospital today removed the dangerous obstruction by means of the bronchoscope. The child, it was said, suffered no permanent injury as a result of swallowing the pin last Sunday.

Remarkable Recovery From Asthma

WILLIAM HOWE

Nacor certainly relieves asthma sufferers. Even in the most severe cases it proves its power. This is demonstrated in the case of William Howe, 530 West Sullivan street, Frankfort, Ind., who suffered for years from bronchial asthma. The story of his remarkable recovery is told in his own words in his letter of May 21, 1920:

"It is with pleasure that I can say to you that I am much better than I have been for some time. This time last year I could not do anything at all and could hardly get to town from home, ten blocks, without calling a taxi. Was unable to do any work at all from May 29, 1919, to July 27, 1919, on account of bronchial asthma. Nacor has done wonders for me and I will heartily recommend it to any one suffering from asthma. I have not missed a day's work on account of asthma since I began taking Nacor."

On Aug. 11, 1923, over three years later Mr. Howe advised that he was still feeling fine and gave Nacor full credit for his recovery.

Nacor is being widely used for asthma bronchitis and coughs. Reports are received daily telling the stories of wonderful recoveries after years of suffering.

"THE HEALTH QUESTION answered by NACOR," is a new and valuable book containing full information regarding the use of Nacor in the treatment of asthma, bronchitis and coughs. It also contains photos and testimonials from local parties. It should be read by every one. A copy of this book will be furnished free of all charges upon request. Write the Nacor Medicine Company, 435 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

The Best Medicine For Women

When Mr. Myers of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, stepped into the drug store and asked his druggist for the best medicine he had in his store for woman's ills, is it any wonder he was handed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Mrs. L. K. Myers in writing of it says: "I had been weak, run down and had a pain in my left side for a long time, so I could not do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me in a short time so I was able to do all of my housework including washing and ironing, and now I feel fine all the time." As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for benefiting 98 women out of every 100 women who take it, it will pay every suffering woman to try it.

THE RIGHT WAY TO USE NATURAL GAS

The burners on your stove or range should not be more than one and one-fourth inches from the utensil. Otherwise, much of the heat is lost. They can easily be raised to the proper height if you find they are too low. The tip of the flame should just touch the bottom of the cooking vessel.

Avoide side drafts which deflect the flame. Do not permit it to "lick" up the sides of the vessel. Use grid tops or skeleton lids instead of solid tops. Have the cooking vessel ready before lighting the gas. When boiling has commenced, the same temperature can be maintained with a lower flame. Turn off the gas before the vessel is removed.

Eisteddfod Prize Won By Wellston-Logan Singers; Local Chorus Highly Praised

High honors in the second annual Eisteddfod held at Jackson yesterday went to Wellston-Logan, this combination of singers winning the grand prize of $400 in the mixed chorus contest and the male chorus event, while the Ladies' Chorus of Jackson won that event. In the afternoon Portsmouth singers figured in two victories, when Mrs. E. H. Dailey and Miss Esther Severinghaus won the soprano and alto duet and Miss Hannah Reider of this city won the soprano solo for young women under 19.

The Portsmouth Male Quartet also won first prize in the afternoon. The singers were Edwin Lodwick, Elmer Fetter, Walter Adams and Talmage Edwards. They were the only one entered, but their performance had to be worthy or the prize could have been withheld.

Elmer Fetter entered in the tenor solo contest, although not winning the prize money, won considerable praise for his work, one little slip causing the prize to go to Mr. Brown of Jackson. The adjudicator paid Mr. Fetter an unusual high compliment in speaking of his interpretation, warmth and feeling put into his work and according to many the adjudication given the solo was well worth more than the money prize.

The Wellsin-Logan combination won the big event last night on their rendition of "Worthy Is the Lamb." Prof. D. H. Williams of Wellston was the leader.

In the afternoon Portsmouth entered a ladies' chorus just to offer opposition to Jackson, the only other chorus entered. Jackson won as the chorus from there had practiced as a chorus while the women in the Portsmouth chorus were selected only yesterday afternoon from the mixed chorus.

In the male chorus contest there were only two entries, Jackson-Oak Hill and Wellston-Logan. Several Portsmouth men joined the Jackson-Oak Hill chorus. At night, when Wellston-Logan carried off the big event, Portsmouth's mixed chorus gave them a close race for the prize. Portsmouth had a chorus of 80 voices while the winner had 100 voices. The local chorus made a splendid showing, according to the adjudication at the close of the contests.

In the children's chorus contest Jackson won. Wellston and Portsmouth were the other entries. Jackson and Wellston had choruses consisting of mostly high school girls only, while the Portsmouth chorus consisted of girls and boys from the seventh and eighth grades only. The local children were not disappointed and told their director, Miss Harriett, Scarff, they would go back next year.

Dr. E. T. Dando, of Wellston, won the baritone solo competition. A piano solo contest was won by Miss Vivian Willis, of Wellston.

An original poem event went to John T. Davis of Columbus; a violin solo won for Miss Elizabeth Moore, of Wellston, while Oak Hill put across a winner when Mrs. John Newton Davis carried off the honors for the alto solo.

In a baritone and soprano duet, Dr. E. T. Dando of Wellston, was paired with Mrs. Ray Lutes of Dayton, and won.

For the best essay on the life of William Dean Howells, Catherine R. Martin of Jackson was awarded the prize

In the morning litle Miss Elizabeth Gilmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Gilmore, won first prize in the little girl's solo contest. Arthur DeVoss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeVoss, won in the boy's solo competition.

Dr. Daniel Protheroe, of Chicago, and Prof. Hugh Owens, of Winona, Ind., were the adjudicators.

Two features were on the afternoon program. John E. Willams, president of the Excelsior Shoe Co., Portsmouth led the solemn gathering in an impressive memorial service for the late President Warren G. Harding

The other feature came with the appearance of Secretary of Labor Davis, who addressed the throng, saying in part:

"My hope is for an America inspired and carried forward in the future by these great Welsh virtues, the love of home and family, the respect for religion, and the love of music. I look forward to the day when the Welsh plan of community singing, as the expression of the heart and soul of the community will sweep America, and weld this country into a great chorus—a hundred million strong, which will send forth to all the world a mighty song of hope and peace and happiness.

"The love for music which lies in the heart of every Welshman is one of the greatest contributions which the Cambrian race has made to the civilization of America. . . .

"I have no doubt that many of those perplexing problems which seem so vital to us in America would fade away and disappear, if we could implant in the heart of every American that true love of music, that appreciation of the meaning of music, and that spiritual uplift which lies in music. For it is only the man who hath no music in his soul who is "fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils."

Jackson was thronged throughout the day by thousands of visitors attending the big event, fully 5,000 being under the big tent in the fair grounds, where it was held.

Representatives from many states were present to enjoy the musical treat.

The county seat was profusely decorated for the occasion and the hospitable homes of its people were thrown open to the visiting guests. Hundreds of machines were parked along the streets and there was a spirit of rythmic pleasure wafted on every passing breeze.

FALL MILLINERY EXPOSITION

GATHERED here for your inspection, are some of the smartest new Fall hats.

Only the past masters in the art of Millinery could have achieved such charmnig success as is evidenced by the representations here.

It is easy to discern that such artists as Reboux, Germaine, Maria Guy have inspired these lovely Chapeux. Priced very reasonably — $4.95 to $9.95.

They're fashioned of Velvet, Duvetyn, Brocaded Silks, Sueded fabrics and Hatter's Plush. The trimmings of feathers, ribbons and novelties assure individual selection.

"WHAT A CLEVER NEW DRESS"

"Did you get it at KLINE'S? I thought so. They have such pretty new Fall Dresses at only $19.50 and even lower as far as price is concerned."

"I got my Coat there, too. And I'm wild about it. It's so big and roomy, and I adore plaids, don't you? Mother thought it such a bargain at $29.50."

All of which, but bespeaks the happy selection of every miss 14 to 20 if she chooses her Fall things here, for our displays for the Junior Miss are bubbling over with youthful and practical styles. Come in and inspect these displays soon.

Mlle. Lenglen, she who wields such a very wicked racket, has set the vogue for some new sports bandeaux of woven elastic. For she, herself favors a bandeau, no matter who her adversary may be, whether wholly given over to the bob, or to a conservative coif. For Mlle. Lenglen is a bit feminine, an da very good sport. These bandeaux are really chic checks on tresses that take to tennis.

Big Ten Football Season Gets In Line Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—(By the A. P.)—More than 1,000,000 spectators are expected to witness the fifty eight football games comprising the "Big Ten" season, Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the western conference, said today commenting on the opening of the 1923 campaign tomorrow.

The "Big Ten" schedule calls for twenty five games in which conference teams will combat rival elevens, and 33 games in which "Big Ten" teams will play elevens outside the conference.

Ohio, with the biggest stadium in the conference, is figuring on capacity crowds of 72,000 for at least three games. Illinois will dedicate its new memorial stadium November 3, with the assurance of a capacity crowd of 55,000. Chicago will oppose the Illini on that day.

Iowa, a football home, has added more steel stands to its field to care for increased attendence and Wisconsin has completed a concrete horseshoe at Randall Field. Chicago and Michigan have seating accommodations for 30,000 and 40,00 respectively. The interest in Chicago is so intense that every seat for the three major games already have been sold.

Cablish Passes Up College; Takes A Charming Bride

MAYSVILLE, KY., Sept. 28.—Homer Cablish, son of Jacob C. Cablish, "put one over" on his parents here. His sweetheart, Roberta Snapps, was in waiting with her father's automobile and they drove to Cincinnati, where were married. They notified their parents here.

The youthful bridegroom is well known here and he has relatives in this city.

OBITUARY

Egbert Funeral

The funeral of Daniel Egbert, prominent Valley township farmer and former county commissioner, who died Friday, will be held from his late home at Miller's Run, near Lucasville, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The services will be conducted by Rev. George H. Weaver, pastor of the Methodist church in Lucasville, and burial will follow in the family lot in Lucasville cemetery.

Mrs. Agnes I. Barklow Roe

One of Portsmouth's life long citizens and most respected women was called to the Great Beyond about 8:45 o'clock last night when the final summons came to Mrs. Agnes I. Barklow Roe, widow of Attorney Benjamin E. Roe, at her home 826 Third street. Complications caused death after an illness dating from last March. She had been seriously ill and bedfast for the last five weeks. Death did not come as an unexpected shock to her immediate relatives and friends who realized her condition was grave for the past few days.

Mrs. Agnes I. Barklow Roe was a daughter of Stout Barklow and Sarah Jane Jeffords Barklow. She was born Oct. 20, 1854, in Portsmouth where she spent all her life with the exception of eighteen months in Greenup County, Ky. She attended the local public schools and was a graduate of the Portsmouth high school being one of a class of thirteen on June 25, 1874. For many years she taught school here and numbered among Portsmouth citizens are many of her former pupils.

Her husband was Benjamin E. Roe, a lawyer who was well known in Greenup county. He was also prominent in Democratic politics and was known to many throughout Greenup county as "Bud" Roe. He passed away about twenty years ago.

Mrs. Roe was the last of the immediate family of Barklows. Her nearest surviving relative is aunt Mrs. Rose Brennen, of Dayton, Ky. She also leaves several cousins in this city.

Mrs. Roe possessed a kind and loving disposition and throughout the city had legions of friends who will be sorry to learn of her death. She was a member of the First Christian church of this city and was also active as registrar in Joseph Spencer Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Third street Saturday morning at ten o'clock after which the body will be taken to Greenup where services will be held in the Christian church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Greenup.

Rotroff Funeral

Funeral services were conducted last night for C. O. Rotroff, 1827 Scioto Trail, a large crowd attending.

Mr. Rotroff died at Mercy Hospital Tuesday evening, as a result of lockjaw which developed after a nail wound apparently had healed.

Members of Carpenters' Union, Local 437, of which Mr. Rotroff was a member, assembled on Chillicothe street and marched in a body to the home where a ritual service was held preceding the regular services.

Rev. C. E. Severinghaus, pastor of the Franklin M. E. Church, conducted the services, on the scripural text, taken from the 121st Psalm, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

Rev. and Mrs. Severinghaus sang a duet, "His Will Be Done," as part of the services, which were attended by a great number of mourning friends of the deceased.

The body was taken this morning, accompanied by Rev. Severinghaus, to Winchester, O., to the home of Mrs. Rotroff's father, Mr. A. F. Howland. Services will be conducted there by Rev. Severinghaus, assisted by Rev. Lyons of Winchester, followed by burial in the Winchester cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Clark

Mrs. Sarah Clark, aged 77, a widow, passed away Friday morning at the home of her son, Abraham Clark, who resides near Clifford. Her death was caused by infirmities. Funeral services probably will be held Sunday afternoon with interment in Lucasville cemetery.

Mrs. Sherman Seibert

Death last night about 8:45 o'clock claimed Mrs. Cora Seibert, beloved wife of Sherman Seibert, of Jackson street, near Campbell, the final summons coming at the home of Mrs. Seibert's mother, Mrs. Laura Meadows, 1825 Jackson street. She had been ill a long time with tuberculosis.

Mrs. Seibert was born in Kentucky and would have been 25 years old January next. The family moved to Portsmouth about four years ago from Lewis cunty, Ky. Surviving are the husband, two children, Pauline, two years, and Norma Lee, eight months, her mother, Mrs. Laura Meadows, and the following brothers, Leonord Meadows, Crum, Ky., and Ola, Frank and Raymond Meadows of Portsmouth.

Short funeral services will be held at the home this evening, about eight o'clock. The body will be taken to Crum, Ky., early Saturday morning for burial.

P. H. S. Ready For Huntingtonians

The P. H. S. gridders went through a signal, passing and kicking practice last night despite the rain and mud. Coach McComb has halted stiff scrimmage workouts as no chances are being taken on crippling the team for Saturday when the locals open their 1923 season in Huntington. The trip to Huntington probably will be made in automobiles and that means the locals will have a big squad in uniform tomorrow. A big crowd of high school football fans will also accompany the team.

No definite lineup has been decided upon but it looks as if the backfield would consist of Captain Ellsessor at quarterback with Thompson ready to step into his shoes. Will Moore at fullback and Gose, Shields and Sprague at half with McConnell ready to go in at half or full. Callihan at center with Leneave to sub in, Reutinger and Munson at guard, Phillips and Heffner at tackle and Monk and Flowers on ends with Armstrong sub end.

Higher Seats Best At Football Game

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 28.—Ohio football fans appear to offer ample testimony that every seat in the Ohio Stadium is a good one.

To judge from the preference expressed by the thousands of patrons of the Ohio State brand of football all parts of the huge Buckeye horseshoe appear to be equally good for viewing football spectacles. This testimony bears out the prediction of the architects who drew the plans for the vast structure.

On only one point do football fans seem to agree. All want their seats on or near the 50-yard line. The lack of more than one 50-yard line has been the constant lament of Ohio State athletic officials all fall.

Requests vary from the first row in the lower tier, to the top row of the upper deck. One man insisted that he had to have tickets in the press box at any cost. Another wanted seats far under the upper tier. He even went so far as to enclose the stubs from tickets he held last year to make sure that his order was filled as he desired.

If you want expert advice about the best seats at a football contest, harken to Dr. J. W. Wilce, known the length and breadth of the land for what he has done with Ohio State elevens in the last 10 years: "The details of play are best seen from the higher seats. There the spectator gets a better perspective."

ARTICLE II, SECTION 35

PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTION 35 OF ARTICLE II OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO, RELATING TO WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, in the manner provided by law, at the general election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1923, a proposal to amend section 35 of article II of the constitution of the state of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 35. For the purpose of providing compensation to workmen and their dependents for death, injuries or occupational disease, occasioned in the course of such workmen's employment, laws may be passed establishing a state fund to be created by compulsory contributions thereto by employers, and administered by the state, determining the terms and conditions upon which payment shall be made therefrom. Such compensation shall be in lieu of all other rights to compensation, or damages for such death, injuries or occupational disease, and any employer who pays the premium or compensation provided by law, passed in accordance herewith, shall not be liable to respond in damages at common law or by statute for such death, injuries or occupational disease. Laws may be passed establishing a board which may be empowered to classify all occupations according to their degree of hazard, to fix rates of contribution to such fund according to such classifications, and to collect, administer and distribute such fund, and to determine all rights of claimants thereto. Where it is found, upon hearing, that an injury, disease or death resulted because of such failure by the employer, such amount as shall be found to be just, not greater than fifty nor less than fifteen per centum of the maximum award established by law, shall be added by the board, to the amount of the compensation that may be awarded on account of such injury, disease or death, and paid in like manner as other awards, and in such compensation is paid from the state fund, the premium of such employer shall be increased in such amount, covering such period of time as may be fixed, as will recoup the state fund in the amount of such additional award, notwithstanding any and all other provisions in this constitution.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:

Sec. 1g. Any initiative, supplementary or referendum petition may be circulated in separate parts but each part shall contain a full and correct copy of the title and text of the law, section or item thereof sought to be referred, or the proposed law or proposed amendment to the constitution. Backfield Crippled

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 28.—The efforts of Coach Joe Meyer, of St. Xavier college to develop a regular back field, composed of experienced players, is being hampered by the absence of Captain Herb Davis and Al. Rapp, both halfbacks, from the line-up at football practice. Davis was forced to lay-off by an attack of boils, and Rapp sprained an ankle. Both men are expected back by the first of the week. In meantime, George Reynolds and Bert Arnold, sophomores, are filling the back-field vacancies.

Looks Like Ironton Game Is Passed Up

Possibilities of Portsmouth hi playing Ironton hi in Ironton Thanksgiving Day are remote. North hi of Columbus has sent word that they cannot change their date with Commerce hi and that means the shifting in the I. H. S. and P. H. S. schedule cannot be accomplished as proposed so that P. H. S. could play North hi here earlier in the season instead of on Turkey Day. The present plan is to have P. H. S. at home with North high of Columbus as opposition on Turkey Day.

Football At Night Latest

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28. — The staging of a night football game is no small task, according to athletic officials of the University of Cincinnati, who announced today that 249 men would be employed at Carson Field tomorrow night when Kentucky Wesleyan college plays the local university eleven. This army of help will include ticket sellers, takers and others to operate the stiles and identify holders of student coupons, besides forty ushers, thirty police and fifty boy scouts to handle the crowd.

Tests of the specially constructed flood lights have been completed and everything done to assure the complete success for the first after-dark football contest to be held in this vicinity.

Struck Very Muddy Roads In Missouri

M. F. Gabler and W. B. Pack, proprietors of the East End Plumbing Co., accompanied by Mrs. Gabler and Mrs. Pack, have returned from a two weeks' motor trip to Topeka, Kansas, where they visited relatives.

The trip was made in Mr. Gabler's Oldsmobile Sedan. No machine trouble was experienced throughout the entire trip, and only three punctures marred the pleasure afforded by the two weeks' travel.

All roads through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kansas were wonderful, Mr. Gabler said last night. But—hitting Missouri roads in a rainy spell was sufficient to spoil the excellence of all the others, he complained.

Although the state is now engaged in laying down an improved highway across its 207 miles, the road at present is only dirt, and as this had been turned to mud by the rains, three days were required to make the stretch from St. Louis to Kansas City.

Injunction Halts Hearing Before Hempstead Academy Of Medicine

Restraining Order Issued In Professional Warfare

The professional warfare between Dr. D. A. Berndt and Dr. S. D. Ruggles, in which Dr. Berndt had preferred charges against Dr. Ruggles with the Hempstead Academy of Medicine, toook an unexpected turn Friday morning when Dr. Ruggles, through his attorneys, Bannon and Bannon, made application in common pleas court for an injunction against Hempstead Academy of Medicine and its board of censors, to restrain them from proceeding with the hearing.

Judge Thomas granted a temporary restraining order, which will block all proceedings, and prevent the proposed hearing Saturday, until after the hearing is held on the injunction case. If the injunction is dissolved, the Academy of Medicine can, of course, proceed with the charges. If the injunction is made permanent, that ends the charges so far as the local body is concerned.

The petition filed on behalf of Dr. Ruggles, is an interesting one and is given in full below. It alleges; vs.

S. D. Ruggles, Plaintiff,

Daniel A. Berndt, J. M. Ohrist, J. D. Jordan, James G. Murfin, and the Hempstead Academy of Medicine, Defendants.

"The plaintiff, S. D. Ruggles, is by profession a dentist duly authorized to practice his profession in the State of Ohio, and he has been engaged in such practice for more than twenty-seven years. He has maintained an office and laboratory and practiced his profession in the City of Portsmouth, Ohio, during the period aforesaid, and now has, and for many years has had, a lucrative practice. His clientage is a desirable one, and much that the plaintiff takes pride in. The plaintiff has specialized in the treatment of fractures of the jaw, and was engaged in such work during the World War, and after the battle of Chateau Thierry was in charge of the maxille-facial ward of the hospital at Vichy, where his experience was further enlarged. The plaintiff is a member in good standing of the American Medical Association.

"The defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, is a practicing physician and surgeon in the City of Portsmouth, and a member of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine. The defendant, the Hempstead Academy of Medicine, is an unincorporated organization and voluntary association in said city. L. G. Locke, is the President, and William A. Quinn is the Secretary of said organization.

"The defendants, J. W. Obrist, J. D. Jordan and James G. Murfin are the members of the Board Censors of said Hempstead Academy of Medicine.

"On or about September 10, 1923, the defendant, William A. Quinn, gave written notice to the plaintiff to appear before said Board of Censors of said Hempstead Academy and at the office of the defendant, James G. Murfin, to answer a charge of gross unprofessional conduct preferred with the Hempstead Academy of Medicine by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt. Said charge consists of three specifications, to-wit:

1. That after the plaintiff had been called in to consultation by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, concerning the fractured jaw of Robert Rockwell (a minor aged thirteen years,) the plaintiff became the regular attendant of the said Robert Rockwell without the consent of the said Daniel A. Berndt, and merely upon the solicitation of the minor's mother.

"Said specification is based upon Section 8, Article 3 of the principles of medical ethics, reading as follows:

"When a physician has attended a patient as a consultant, he should not become the attendant of the patient during that illness except with the consent of the physician, who was in charge at the time of the consultation."

Section 3 of Article 4 also has a bearing, and reads as follows:

"A physician should never take charge of or prescribe for a patient who is under the care of another physician, except in an emergency, until after the other physician has relinquished the case or has been properly dismissed."

"The facts concerning said specifications are as follows:

"In August, 1921, one Robert Rockwell, while going to a Sunday school picnic, fell from an automobile and suffered two fractures of the jaw. He was conveyed to the Hempstead Hospital and the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, was called by some employee of said hospital to wait upon him. The said Daniel A. Berndt was not then the regular family physician or surgeon of the said Robert Rockwell, or of any other member of his family, and said physician was called as in an emergency, it being the rule of the hospital to call him in similar cases.

"Thereafter the mother of the said Robert Rockwell, learned that her son was in the hospital and she called to see him and, while there, met the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, for the first time. The said Daniel A. Berndt advised her that the services of a dentist were necessary and essential in order to properly set the jaw of the said Robert Rockwell, and thereupon the mother requested that the said Daniel A. Berndt call the plaintiff to assist him in the reduction of the fractures, and the proper alignment of the teeth; and said mother further requested that she be notified before the operation was performed, and that nothing be done in her absence. The defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, agreed (after some hesitation) to call the plaintiff to his assistance, and further agreed that the mother of the boy should be present at the hospital when the operation was performed.

"Thereafter the said Daniel A. Berndt attended to reducing the fractured jaw of said boy, but without calling to his assistance the plaintiff, or any other dentist, and without the presence of the mother of the boy at the hospital. A few days after such operation the said Robert Rockwell was returned to his home, and the condition of his jaw became the subject of such comment in the neighborhood that his mother demanded that the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, hold a consultation with the plaintiff. Thereupon, such consultation was arranged, and the plaintiff discovered that the patient's jaw had been fractured in two places, and that one of the fractures had not been discovered by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, nor reduced by him, and that the patient's teeth were improperly aligned, and that it was necessary to break again the fracture reduced by the said Daniel A. Berndt and reset it, and also set the fracture which had not been set. Said defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, was of the opinion that there was but one fracture, but it was uncontrovertibly developed through radiographs that there were two. When the mother of the patient was informed that the operation would have to be done over, she promptly dismissed the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, from any connection with the case, and would not permit him to assist in the second operation, nor to have anything whatever further to do with the case. The plaintiff was willing at all times to co-operate with the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, but the presence or assistance of the latter would not be tolerated by the mother of the boy. Thereupon the plaintiff proceeded to, and did, properly set the fractures and properly align the teeth of the boy.

"The defendant refused to give his consent for the plaintiff to reduce the fractured jaw of the boy unless the mother would first pay him for what he had done, and threatened the mother that, unless she did do so, no physician or surgeon in the city of Portsmouth would wait upon or attend her boy, or even give him an anesthetic. The mother refused to pay said Daniel A. Berndt anything, claiming that she was not indebted to him in any amount, which claim the said Daniel A. Berndt afterward conceded to be true.

"The subject matter of said specification in a state claim, having existed for more than two years past without any action having been taken thereon, or any proceedings having been filed in connection therewith.

"2. The second specification in that the plaintiff made comments on and insinuations regarding the practice of the said Daniel A. Berndt upon the said Robert Rockwell. Said specification is based upon Section 4 of Article 4 of the principles of medical ethics reading as follows:

"When a physician does not succeed another physician in the charge of a case, he should not make comments on or insinuations regarding the practice of the one who preceded him. Such comments or insinuations tend to lower the esteem of the patient for the medical profession and so react against the critic."

Section 7 of Article 3 also has a bearing, and reads as follows:

"Should the attending physician and the consultant find it impossible to agree in their views of a case another consultant should be called to the conference or the first consultant should withdraw. However, since the consultant was employed by the patient in order that his opinion might be obtained, he should be permitted to state the result of his study of the case to the patient, or his next friend in the presence of the physician in charge."

"The facts in connection with the said specifications are that the plaintiff informed the mother that the work performed by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, would have to be done over again in order that serious consequences to the future health of the boy might be avoided. Such opinion was not concurred in by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, but it subsequently developed that his opinion was incorrect. The plaintiff made no insinuation regarding the practice of the said Daniel A. Berndt, and did not inform the mother of the said boy of the failure of the said Daniel A. Berndt to discover and to reduce one of the fractures until after she had otherwise learned of it. The facts were not stated in the presence of Daniel A. Berndt because the mother of the boy would have nothing to do with said Berndt.

"3. The third specification is that the plaintiff publicly revealed upon the trial of the case of Robert Rockwell vs. Daniel A. Berndt, Scioto Common Pleas, confidential discussions and privileged professional communications made in consultation between the plaintiff and said Daniel A. Berndt.

"A diligent search fails to disclose any principle of medical ethics covering such specification.

"The facts concerning the same are as follows: There were no privileged professional communications involved. All that the plaintiff did was to testify in a court of justice to the facts. The defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, was present while the plaintiff gave his testimony and had the opportunity to take the witness stand himself and and call other witnesses to refute such testimony of the plaintiff, but the said Daniel A. Berndt, instead of doing so, sought to make a settlement of the case that was brought against him for the best terms obtainable and did so, well knowing that the facts testified to by the plaintiff were true, and that no evidence could be produced to controvert the same.

"Th plaintiff avers that his conduct in testifying to facts in said case was not a violation of any of the principles of medical ethics, and that any principle prohibiting a physician or surgeon from giving the facts in a court of competent jurisdiction is contrary to law, contrary to public policy and void.

"The defendants, J. W. Obrist, J. D. Jordan ad James G. Murfin, have announced their intention of reporting to the defendant, the Hempstead Academy of Medicine, that the plaintiff is guilty of a violation of the principles of medical ethics. The defendant, the Hempstead Academy of Medicine, has threatened to and will, unless restrained by the court, confirm the report of its Board of Censors and find the plaintiff guilty of having violated the principles of medical ethics. Section 2 of Article 6 of the by-laws of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine provides that no member of said Academy shall consult with or have any professional relations with any physician who violates any principle of medical ethics. The said Hempstead Academy of Medicine will make some report to the Ohio State Medical Association, and attempt to prevail upon the latter to demand that the plaintiff be expelled from the American Medical Association.

"The actions of the defendants complained of herein should be restrained for the following reasons:

"(a) The plaintiff is not a member of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine and is not eligible to membership therein, and such Academy has no right or jurisdiction to cite him to appear before it and no right, power or authority to declare him guilty of unprofessional conduct, or the violation of the principles of ethics, or to censure him, or to take any steps through the Ohio State Medical Association, or otherwise, to inform the American Medical Association of its action, or to demand the expulsion of the plaintiff from the American Medical Association.

"(b) Section 1 of chapter 9 of the by-laws of the American Medical Association provides that the Judicial Council of such association shall have jurisdiction of all questions of ethics, and that such Council may investigate all matters pertaining to the relation of physicians to one another. The American Medical Association is the only voluntary association to which the plaintiff may be required to answer.

"(c) Defendants have combined, confederated, conspired and agreed together for the purpose of attempting to deprive, and will deprive if they can do so, the plaintiff of his clientage, injure him in his professional standing, and in his standing as a citizen in his community. Almost without exception, the physicians of Scioto County are members of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine and iw the defendants can prohibit physicians, surgeons and dentists, by the devices above described, from having any professional or consultant relations with the plaintiff they will injure him in his property right to practice his profession. If the defendants are permitted to carry out their purpose heretofore described, no physician will administer the anesthetic for any patient of the plaintiff, nor will any physician consult with him or associate with him in the treatment of any surgical or other case. By the means aforesaid, it is sought by the defendants to create a boycott against the plaintiff.

"(d) A sinister purpose of the defendants is to deter physicians and surgeons from disclosing the facts in cases of malpractices when called upon in a court of justice to do so, thereby obstructing the course of justice and depriving citizens of their legal rights.

"If these defendants are permitted to take the actions against the plaintiff above set forth, and the plaintiff is obliged to go to the expense of prosecuting his appeals through the various channels of medical organizations, he will be injured and damaged in his property right to practice his profession during such appeals, will be put to great expense and annoyance and waste of his time and will suffer great and irreparable injury from which he has no adequate remedy at law. The defendants, and their associates and confederates are unable to adequately respond in damages.

"WHEREFORE, the plaintiff prays that the defendants, and each of them, may be temporarily restrained and, upon final hearing, perpetually enjoined from hearing, or making any order concerning, the specifications filed by the defendant, Daniel A. Berndt, with the Board of Censors of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine; that the said J. W. Obrist, J. D. Jordan, James G. Murfin, and the Hempstead Academy of Medicine be restrained and enjoined from holding any meeting or session for the purpose of considering the specifications and complaint filed against the plaintiff; and from passing any resolution or making any order or taking any action concerning the plaintiff; that the defendants, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from taking any steps through the Ohio State Medical Association or otherwise to demand the expulsion of the plaintiff from the American Medical Association; that the defendants, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from censuring the plaintiff or reporting him to have violated the ethics of the medical profession, or from adopting any resolution having for its object and purpose prohibiting members of the Hempstead Academy of Medicine from consulting with or having any professional relations with the plaintiff; that the individual defendants, and each of them, their associates and confederates, be restrained and enjoined from creating a boycott against the plaintiff and for such further relief as the plaintiff may be entitled to in equity."

Bear Traders Uncover Weak Spots Near Close

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Mixed price movements took place in today's stock market. Some heaviness was apparent at the start on the failure of a stock exchange house, but the market resistance shown by the general list brought about extensive short covering. Bear traders however, succeeded in uncovering weak spots in the final dealings. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 600,000 shares.

OPENING —Considerable irregularity developed at the opening of today's stock market with the usual industrial leaders showing a heavy tone. Baldwin dropped 1⅜; Studebaker 1 and U. S. Steel and Pan American yielded fractionally. Jones Brothers Tea dropped one point to a new low record for the year. Tobacco Products opened a point higher.

Jones Brothers Tea extended its loss to three points but soon made up its gain and started for higher ground. The general list also showed good signs of recovery, Delaware and Hudson, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Bethlehem Steel and Pressed Steel Car showing gains of 1 to 2 points. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, German marks improving slightly to sixty cents a hundred million, despite the Reichsbank statement showing a weekly increase of more than two quadrillion marks in note circulation.

NOON—Prices held relatively steady during the second hour but trading was rather sluggish. Steady buying of the tobacco shares, Lorillard excepted, resulted in gains of 1 to 2½ points. A good inquiry also was noted for corn products, U. S. Alcohol, Davison Chemical, Lackawanna railroad, U. S. Realty and Chicago and Alton preferred which advanced 1 to 2 points, and Inland Steel up 3. The usual leaders moved within narrow limits. Explanation of the recent weakness of Jones Brothers Tea was furnished by failure of the stock exchange house of Robert P. Marshall and Company, which was the second large stockholder. The stock made good recovery after its early 3 point dip. Selling of the Pan American issues and Hartman Corporation, the latter dropping 2½ points, failed to bring out any extensive liquidation elsewhere. Call money opened at 5¼ per cent.

ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Directors of the United Gas and Electric Company have declared an initial dividend of 35-36th of one per cent on the new preferred stock for the period July 20 to October 1, putting the stock on a five per cent annual basis. The dividend is equal to approximately 97 cents on 64,004 shares of the new preferred outstanding.

The regular dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock of the Shaffer Oil and Refining Company, for the quarter ended September 30 has been omitted by the board of directors because of the unsettled condition of the industry.

Considerable switching from the shares of low priced Western carriers into stock of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is reported by commission houses and probably accounts for the rapid rise in the stock on declaration of a common dividend.

Grain Market Shows Upturns

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—Confronted with new bullish estimates of the Canadian crop, wheat took a decided upturn in price today during the early dealings. The fresh figures regarding Canadian production were credited to the northwestern grain dealers association were 75,000,000 bushels smaller than the Canadian government's latest returns. Continued notice of Washington plans for farm relief counted likewise in favor of the bulls and so too did strength of corn and oats. The opening which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ½c higher with Dec. 1.05½ to 1.05¾ and May 1.10⅛ to 1.10⅝ was followed by material gains all around.

The close was firm, ¾ to 1¾c net higher, with Dec. 1.06¾ to 1.06⅝@½ and May 1.10⅝ to 1.11.

Corn opened with September delivery touching a new high price record for the season. Wet weather was an incentive to buy. After opening unchanged to ½@⅝c up, Dec. 72¼ to 72⅝, prices scored a general upturn and then reacted somewhat. With big shorts covering oats started unchanged to ¼ @⅜c higher Dec. 42⅝ to 42⅞ and later showed a general advance.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to the provision market.

Presbyterians To Honor Rev. Powell

In view of the fact that a neighborly feeling has always existed between the First Presbyterian and All Saints' church, and as Rev. E. Ainger Powell will deliver his farewell sermon Sunday evening, there will be no services in the First Presbyterian church, and members are urged to attend Rev. Powell's fargwell in his own church.

Sunday Promotion Day At U. B. Church

Just as the first day of school is one of the most interesting of all school days, so next Sunday will be one day which will be long remembered by the children of the United Brethren Sunday school.

Promotion exercises will be held and the children will be passed from one department to another and from one class to another in the different departments. All members of the various classes are keenly interested in who their new teachers will be and to what class rooms they will be assigned.

The members of the Cradle Roll will be given diplomas and will be passed to the Beginners' department. Eighteen members of the Beginners' department will be promoted to the children's division, and seventeen members of the children's department will be promoted to the intermediate section.

Parents are especially urged to attend and bring their children, for it is essential to get all promotion work accomplished Sunday so the school will be ready for the coming of Dr. C. W. Brewbaker the following Sunday.

In addition to the promotion exercises the school will also observe Anniversary day Sunday.

The goal has been set at 500 for the attendance and $200 for the offering, and the members are all anxious to see both goals be reached.

France and America plan to establish a floating weather bureau at sea.

Don't forget the Grand Opening of the Baldwin Piano Store, 818 Chillicothe Street. This evening. Souvenirs. Adv.

To Inspect River Road

The Wheeling Intelligencer says:

L. A. Boulay, state highway director of the state of Ohio, will arrive in Wheeling on a tour of inspection of the Ohio River highway, which is being built on the Ohio side of the river. The project contemplates a road beginning at East Liverpool and generally following the valley of the Ohio River to Portsmouth, Ohio. Work is now going on in practically every county along the entire route, and the prospects are that the road will be completed the latter part of next year, except one or two difficult points where sharp narrows have to be cut. This is one of the most important highway improvements undertaken by any state and will be of great value to the people of West Virginia when completed.

Mr. Boulay will go to Bellaire from Wheeling, and from there along the route of the road to East Liverpool.

Hitler Makes A Protest

MUNICH, Septembre 28 (By the Associated Press).—Despite threatened demonstrations by nationalist and Hitlerites, last evening in Munich passed uneventfully. The halls where the demonstrators had planned to hold meetings were occupied by the police when the inhibition upon such gathrings by Dr. Von Kahr, the military dictator, was decreed. Small groups of manifestants in the streets were dispersed without incident. The ministries and othe official buildings were under occupation by the Reichswehr.

The day passed quietly in Nuremberg also.

Adolph Hitler, leader of the fascisti element, has sent a letter to Dr. Von Kahr protesting against the prohibition of the meeting his followers intended to hold and declaring his future acts will depend upon those of Dr. Von Kahr.

Assault Case Being Heard

Delbert Hale and Jeff Gilliam, New Boston young men, are on trial before Judge Thomas and jury in Common Pleas court today under an indictment charging them jointly with having assaulted with intent to disfigure and maim and kill C. M. Copas, a local real estate agent.

The assault occurred at the soft drink establishment conducted by John Holmes at Fourteenth and Findlay streets on the evening of August 15 last, when Copas claimed he was attacked from the rear by Hale and severely beaten with some heavy instrument which his assailant held in his hand, resulting in the infliction of five scalp wounds. The state contended that the assault was committed without cause or provocation.

The defense admitted that Hale struck Copas following an altercation which grew out of dispute over money matters but insisted that Copas was the aggressor to the trouble, declaring that the complainant attempted to grab a bottle to hit Hale with before the latter struck. Hale made emphatic denial to the claim that he hit Copas with anything other than his fist and explained a ring on his finger probably caused the small wounds inflicted on the head of his opponent.

Gilliam denied that he took any part in the assault and the evidence adduced by the state failed to connect him with the trouble further than being with Hale.

The jury which is hearing the case is composed of these women and men: E. W. Purdy, Albert Havekotte, Cornelia Truethart, Reuben Lukemier, John Q. Arthurs, Ralph Kock, S. E. Gowdy, Frank Gazele, Charles N. Moore, George Jenkins, W. J. Shannon and Bedelia Donohue.

Attorney Theo. K. Funk appeared for the defendants and Judge A. Z. Blair is assisting Prosecutor S. A. Skelton in handling the case for the state.

To Hold Court In Cleveland

Judge J. S. Thomas has again been drafted for service on the Common Pleas Court bench in Cleveland. The local jurist will leave early Sunday for the Forest City, where he will hold court for a period of four weeks under special assignment of Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the Supreme Court.

Suits Dismissed

Approved entries were filed in the office of the Clerk of Courts Friday dismissing a number of divorce suits for lack of prosecution. Among the cases "kicked off" the docket were: Jessie Triggs vs Ernie Triggs; Samuel E. Carnell vs Edna Carnell; Iva Starlin vs. Clarence Starlin; Queen Sparks vs Labe Sparks; May Herron vs Roy Herron and Margaret Wintersole vs Peter Wintersole.

Suit In Partition

Suit to partition real estate left of the estate of the late J. E. Blackburn, prominent Harden merchant, who was killed when his automobile was struck by a freight train at a grade crossing at Otway in August 1921, was brought by Irvin E. Blackburn, suing through Attorney B. F. Kimble in Common Pleas court, against Ray S. Blackburn and other heirs of the decedent.

The land involved in the suit consists of six separate tracts situated in the village of Harden and in Harden township.

Smith Jailed; Girl Adjudged Delinquent

Albert Smith, young man of this city, was found to be guilty of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Icy Holsinger, 15 years old, at a hearing in Probate court Friday and he was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Gilliland.

The Holsinger girl was also adjudged a delinquent and she was ordered committed to the Industrial Home for Girls at Delaware. Smith and the girl were apprehended in Cincinnati and returned here on complaints filed after an investigation of their associations.

Saturday Divorce Day

Tomorrow will be "Divorce Day" in Common Pleas court as a number of such actions have been assigned for hearing before Judge Thomas.

Held on Trespassing Charge.

The Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday said:

An unusual indictment was returned by the Hamilton County Grand Jury yesterday, in an unusual case. The which is against John Patterson, is "jumping on a railroad locomotive," but back of it is a peculiar line of circumstances.

On August 23, last, it is alleged, Patterson, who was touring the country via the box-car route, stopped off in the yards of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, and boarded a locomotive which was standing in the yards, with steam up but unattended, and opened the throttle. The locomotive dashed out upon the main track and ran into another locomotive which was coming into the yards. Both engines were wrecked and a large section of the track torn up.

Patterson was arrested and was taken before Squire H. L. Hilton, of Norwood, who held him to the grand jury for jumping on a locomotive, as there seemed no other charge to place against him, except trespassing, and upon this charge he was indicted and must stand trial.

Case Settled; Dismissed

The parties to the suit of W. W. Weidner company against J. T. Horney, auctioneer, having effected amicable settlement, an approval entry was filed in the office of the clerk of courts yesterday dismissing the action.

Plaintiff sued to recover $200 claimed in connection with the sale of real estate and in the settlement received the claim in full, it was reported.

BLAIR GETS DOWN TO REAL TRAINING FOR HIS NEXT MATCH

Tickets for the next boxing show will go on sale at the Smoke House Saturday evening at 7 o'clock and from all indications they will go like the proverbial hot cakes.

The main go will be for ten rounds between Nig Blair, the Portsmouth champion, and Phil Keith, the Louisville boy who won over Blair a few weeks ago in Cincinnati. Many local fans saw the bout and they are all anxious to have Nig give the Kentucky boxer another whirl. The bout was the best one on the Ryan-Downey card and had the fans on their toes from gong to gong. The decision was so close that a return match is sure to mean a real battle as Blair has a hunch he can stop Keith, next Friday night. The scene of the battle will be Millbrook pavilion.

There is also another good return match on the same card when Butch White will again try conclusions with Jack Titus of Springfield. White met Titus several months ago when Jack put the old sleeper on the local slugger. Butch has been clamouring for a return match and his wishes will be gratified.

George Alexander and Charlie Pilsen will go six rounds to settle the bantam championship of the city. This is a real grudge bout and the fur will surely fly. Young Snell of Springfield, and Kid McAndrews of Cincinnati, will hook up for six rounds in the curtain raiser. It looks like a card that will be fraught with action.

Smokehouse Eleven Looks Formidable

A glance at the list of candidates out for position on the Smoke House team under Captain Ackroyd indicates a well balanced eleven for Portsmouth this season. There is a wealth of material on hand and some of the new candidates are making such a fine showing ing that those holding regular berths will have to step along to hold their jobs. They have only been put through signal practice but tonight a light scrimmage is promised with a real workout coming Sunday morning when a practice game may be staged with the Smoke House Juniors.

The following veterans have reported for their old positions:

DeVoss, halfback; Adams, fullback and end; Appel, tackle; Phillips, end; Gardner, guard; Doll, halfback and end; Chabot, halfback; end; Shope, guard and center; Englebrecht, guard; Molster, tackle, and Quinn, half and quarterback.

The following new men have reported and expect to earn positions: Cropper, tackle; Little, center; Stanford, center and guard; Pfeiffer, fullback and guard; Reinhard, quarterback; Gaspitte, full and halfback; Creasy, center; Middleton, end and fullback; Pfau, full and halfback; Thorne, guard and tackle.

Jimmy Taylor, the veteran quarter back for the past few years, has reported at practice, but is unable to play. He is putting in generous efforts in helping Coach Ackroyd in fitting out a man to take his place. Bill Prior, veteran center, is out of town at present and his position will be well looked after by Creasy, Stanford and Little. Montgomery, veteran utility man, has retired from the football ranks.

Detroit Noses Out Indians

DETROIT, Sept. 28.—The Detroit Tigers crept a game nearer to second place by winning from the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 4. YANKEES WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—New York defeated Boston, 8 to 3, but in the 8th inning right fielder Bob Meusel injured his left leg in sliding into the home plate and had to be carried from the field. He succeeded in scoring on Schang's single.

When the New York team arrived in Boston Thursday morning, 1st baseman Pipp stepped off the car and because there was no porter's step in place, sprained his ankle and could not play today. X-ray photographs of both injuries will be made to determine whether any bones were broken. Score:

BACKS OUT, GOES FORWARD

GOVERNOR DONAHEY has receded from his gravel road program and taken a step forward in an advance towards permanent roads.

In the voice of Highway Superintendent Boulay he announces that the policy of the state in regard to gravel roads has been changed. There will be no effort nor purpose to make them the general character roads of the state. The plan will be to lay them only where the traffic justifies, or the counties are too ill situated financially to bear their proportion in constructing a more lasting form of thoroughfare. Indeed all improvements will be made with the design ultimately of permanent construction. That's better, decidedly so, but we still fail to see that it is sound economic policy for the state to go at all into the building of gravel highways. The idea of them being a base for permanent laying is rather preposterous. It is a remote road, indeed that will stand up for more than a year under the traffic of nowadays. Scioto county has one specimen, laid with a peculiarly enduring gravel, so it is claimed. It has been lain something more than a year and resurfaced a half dozen times in that period. It was resurfaced last week. In a month it will be intolerable because of bumps and dust. It is the most costly piece of highway, both directly and indirectly, that Scioto county has.

A silk purse was never made out of a sow's ear. For better than two thousand years mankind has been trying to solve the problem of good roads. It has never yet got a hint that a permanent road could be made out of impermanent material.

WHY ACCIDENTS HAPPEN

LAST night a big touring car came hurtling eastward around a corner, away from which stretched a long line of automobiles. At the same moment a Ford moving west neared the corner. Only remarkable ingenuity in the handling of the Ford saved a disastrous collision, the young fellow in the big car driving as nonchalantly ahead as though everybody had nothing to do, but keep out of his way.

That's the spirit that makes for peril and accident, a heedless disregard of the rights of others. There wasn't one probability in a thousand that the young fellow had any reason at all to hurry along at a deadly speed. He was just indifferent to the safety of himself and others.

THE RIGHT OF FREEDOM

HOW completely independent of England has become Ireland is shown in the new judiciary, or civil rights, bill passed by the dail, the Irish legislative body. The English system is up-torn, root and branch, and cast aside utterly. In its stead is put in motion a formula very much akin to that operating in the United States.

Supremest of all evidences of independence, however, is the enactment of a bill declaring the decrees of Sinn Fein courts, uttered while the island was in actual rebellion, shall be held of full force and effect.

This, indeed, marks a new era for Ireland. It can only be hoped that her courts will establish as enviable a reputation as that enjoyed by United States courts generally. Admitted there has been instances, and many extremely bitter, of censures of our tribunals, these arose out of exceptional and individual matters. As the great overwhelming rule our courts have been fair and honest.

The C. and O. is going to build a new station at Ashland right away. Just a reminder that the N. and W. is going to build a new station at Portsmouth—next year!

The irresistible march of progress has seized the Chillicothe papers and is hurrying them along. The Gazette has just installed one of the best stereotype presses and the News-Advertiser is laying the foundation of what is to be the finest newspaper building in Southern Ohio.

The Ashland Independent wants all the people to co-operate with the C. and O. in securing a site for the two and a half million dollar station and terminals it is going to build. It says even property owners should be willing to sell to the railway for a little more than they would ask of a private individual. To be sure, but why demand more of the railway?

You can't catch these old machine "birds", no matter if you do get close enough to sprinkle salt on their tales. Senators Pepper and Reed had a lovely interview with Coolidge, but they give no sign that they saw a hand wagon anywhere in the vicinity of the White House.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Old Chelsea district. Cobwebbed cellars. Red brick chimneys. Dormer windows. Chipped gilding. Mustiness of the past. Curio shops with daguerreotypes and yellowed old editions.

Bookish professors reading in chairs along the curb. Drug sanitariums with barred windows. Tously boarding houses. Chili con carne stands. There's old Franklin Square—and Harper's has moved away. A square through which have passed Thackeray, Dickens, Howells, Twain and Stedman.

Brick walled gardens with here and there a touch of English ivy. Street characters that vie with the "cries" of London. A coffee stall for cab drivers. Plug hats. Stubby pipes. Red noses. Here's a silk district. Extra police and detectives.

More big robberies here than in the banking district. Old-time wholesale houses. No rush and flurry. Aged accountants who have grown up with the places. And wear skull caps. A dingy shop that sells iron deer and dogs. Also brass andirons.

Limp women draped in windows. Hunting a breeze. Wandering street acrobats. Blind alleys with Dickensy atmosphere. Girls rolling rat-tailed stogies. The Bide-a-wee Home for stray animals. Phipps philanthropic tenements.

The smell of hops. Still, it may be a bakery. I've never seen a tin shop in New York. Slum children gathering the winter kindling. Jefferson Market Court. Pudgy bailiffs. Ambulance chasers and bail sharks. Seedy men who wear paper collars.

Wonder who pawned that Palm Beach suit! And that pith-helmet! The old Puck building. Sign says: "Bath Rubbers on Strike!" Two burros in a crate. There's the uptown elevated. Enough gloom for one day. Back to the lights.

It has long been the gossip of Broadway that two top-notch song-writers have the "yen"—which means they are opium smokers. One of them I had not seen for five or six years until the other evening. He has grown shabby and furtive eyed. He was in a cheap cafe humming a tune that had helped make him famous for a group of hangers on. The hand that held his drink shook like an aspen leaf.

In the same cafe I heard the tale of an adroit gold digger's coupe de grace. She had been elected to select five other girls for a rather merry dinner party. The generous host suggested that some sort of favors be given the girls. She proposed a one hundred dollar bill be placed under each plate, and the bills were given to her to arrange. The dinner was held, the girls came—all except one. Yes, there were no hundred dollar bills.

The Hobo College at 350 Bowery has closed. It appears the owner of the building was so little interested in education, so lacking in the finer instincts, that he actually tried to collect rent for the use of his second floor loft. The barrels that were used as seats have been tossed into the gutter. One reason is given by the Bowery for the closing of the institution of learning. An employment agency had the audacity to open up next door to the college. It so depressed the students that they simply staggered out. The college was founded in 1919 by J. Eads Howe, the millionaire hobo. One of the first courses was on "Railroad Bulls and How to Spot Them First."

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

Pirate Treasure

(By Berton Braley)

(Pirates were really mere sea sneak thieves whose usual loot consisted of nothing more than grain and other foodstuffs.—Sir Basil Thompson.)

OH, Captain Kidd was a Pirate bold
Who sailed the roaring seas,
On many a trip he scuttled a ship
For the sake of a peck of peas.

WITH his Pirate Horde a ship he'd board
And battle from stem to poop
For some garden stuff and some canned plum-duff,
And a gallon or two of soup.

OLD Blackbeard, too, with his evil crew,
All scoundrels of bloody ilk,
Would fight, perhaps, for a cask of schnapps
Or a cargo of malted milk.

THEY were steeped in crimes, and at various times
They battled in manner rash
For a mess of greens and some Boston beans
And a dinner of corned-beef hash.

THEY would fight a fleet for some deviled meat
Or some real blackberry jam,
And die for the sake of a chocolate cake
Or a slice of cold boiled ham.

SO the treasure hid by Captain Kidd
Or any old pirate bold,
Would prove, no doubt, if you traced it out,
To lack any sign of gold;

AND when you'd dug like a doodle bug
Led on by the pirate's plans,
You'd find alas! some figs in glass,
And a lot of sardine cans.

O, MY LUVE'S LIKE A RED, RED ROSE.
By Robert Burns.

O, my luve's like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June;
O, my luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune.

As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in luve am I;
And I will luve thee still, my dear,
'Til a' the seas gang dry;

'Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt wi' the sun;
And I will luve thee still, my dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.

And fare thee weel, my only luve!
And fare thee weel awhile!
And I will come again, my luve.
Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

Tommy had been playing truant from school and had spent a long beautiful day fishing. On his way back he met one of his young cronies who accosted him with the usual question, "Catch anything?"

At this, Tommy, in all consciousness of guilt, quickly responded: "Ain't been home yet."

"I can," replied the registrar, "and that's what aroused my curiosity."

Dad Gets Stuck

Dad Smith was fond of trying to catch little Johnny in spelling long words, but Johnny was usually able to hold his own, so Dad decided to try a few monosyllables for a change.

"Johnny," he said, "I'm going to give you some easy ones this evening. Spell 'dumb.'

"D-u-m."

"Ha, I caught you that time. It's d-u-m-b."

"Well, didn't I say that?"

"I didn't hear the b, Johnny."

"You're not supposed to hear it, Dad; teacher said the b was silent in that word."—Judge.
